

Americans Can Finish Jap Job In 3-5 Years With 200,000

Editor's Note: Glenn Babb, foreign editor of the Associated Press, has returned on tour to the orient, to study conditions under Allied occupation. Babb went from Asia to New York in 1935 after long service in north China and as chief of bureau in Tokyo. This is the first of three articles in which he discusses the occupation of Japan after conferences with General MacArthur, Premier Shidehara and other high American and Japanese officials.

By GLENN BABB
Tokyo, Nov. 8 (AP)—America's tremendous task in Japan possibly can be fulfilled within three to five years, with an occupying force of approximately 200,000 men.

This is the expressed opinion of many of the men here who should know best, provided the present rate of progress is maintained and there are no drastic changes in policies given occupying authorities.

There is confidence here that within such a period militarism can be eradicated, a reasonable facsimile of democracy planted and a restricted measure of economic well-being restored. Then, according to this view, American and other Allied armies can be withdrawn, possibly to be replaced by some form of control, with confidence that Japan will be a useful member of the family of nations with no desire or power to make war again.

Yank Confidence
This picture was developed from talks with the highest leaders of both Americans and Japanese. The confidence expressed is perhaps more American than Japanese; there are many Japanese who view the future darkly. A few express the hope that American occupation will last many years, regarding it as a shield against further disaster.

General MacArthur and his staff were among those with whom I discussed Japan's future, but the general would not permit his conversation to be quoted and he is in no way responsible for the statements made herein. My talks with Premier Shidehara and members of his cabinet contributed to these conclusions.

MacArthur is known to be content with the progress of his program of demilitarization and democratization.

Complete Defeat

In public statements, the supreme Allied commander has expressed confidence that an occupation force of 200,000 for both Japan and Korea will be sufficient after next spring if no untold developments occur. He has emphasized the completeness of Japan's defeat and humiliation and the destruction of her ability to make war.

Americans and Japanese agree that thus far there has been 100 per cent compliance with the series of hard-hitting directives issued from MacArthur's headquarters. The initial occupation was completely bloodless; there have been no subsequent instances of revolt against America control. There is no evidence of any underground in the making. But, those who believe in a relatively short occupation emphasize that one which extends beyond five years will bring new dangers. Either the Japanese will become completely dependent on the Americans or resentment against alien rule will have time to flower into open rebellion.

Many Jap Freedoms

Changes decreed by MacArthur have bestowed on the Japanese people freedoms they do not yet fully understand how to use, producing a state of flux from which vast changes in the Japanese way of life inevitably must come. The nature of these changes obviously depends on the kind of control exercised by the victorious powers.

Therefore, responsible leaders trying to chart the future emphasize the belief that continuation of current progress depends on the maintenance of the present basic character of the occupation, with direction, execution and responsibility primarily in accordance with the policies of free governments.

It is anticipated that British Em-

SALE OF BONDS IN COUNTY HITS $289,099 MARK

Bond sales in Adams county skyrocketed during the past 48 hours and officials of the Adams County War Finance committee see possibilities of attaining the quota before the official close of the drive.

Total sales, as of this morning, with some issuing agents not reported, are $289,099.50, of which $62,858.25 represents E bonds.

This is an increase of more than $100,000 since the last official figures were released and, according to one observer, "indicates that Adams county is bent on attaining its quota before the close of the campaign."

One committee member said: "We are still far from our goal of $890,000 but we have passed the one-third mark and if our workers continue to exert their best efforts we will reach our goal without too much difficulty."

Two Allocations
Included in today's figures are two out-of-county allocations. One is for $5,000 in Victory Bonds from the West Virginia Pulp and Paper company, of Tyne, and the other is a $4,000 allocation from the C. C. Murphy company. This allocation is of the Tax Savings Series C type of bond.

Although today's figures represent a good portion of county sales it is not complete, one official said. "A number of agencies have not reported their sales for three days. Another has not reported since the drive started. Hence, we do not know exactly how many bonds have been sold in the county thus far."

Adams county's E bond quota is $350,000 and the quota for all other types of bonds to individuals is $540,000. The corporate quota has not been announced as yet by the state headquarters.

The stress in the current campaign is on E bonds and county workers are being urged to make every effort to sell E bonds in preference to all others.

Countian Receives Purple Heart Award

Mrs. Iva Hertz, Fairfield R. 1, today received the Purple Heart from the war department for the death of her husband, S 1/C William Lyman Hertz, who was killed in action at Two Jima last February 21.

Mrs. Hertz was first informed by the war department that her husband was missing in action as of Feb. 21. On June 14 she was advised that he had been killed in action.

Seaman Hertz, who was employed at Letterkenny before entering service, had been overseas since August, 1944. He was in service a year when he lost his life.

Besides his widow he is survived by two sons, Charles, six, and Ronald, four.

43 Local Stores To Close Monday

Forty-three stores of Gettysburg will close Monday, November 12, in observance of Armistice Day, Mares Sherman, chairman of the Retail Division of the Chamber of Commerce, announced today.

Stores which will close Monday and whose name does not appear on the list below are asked to contact the Chamber of Commerce office at once.

The following have already announced they will close for the holiday:

Wentz Furniture store, Rose Ann Shop, Gettysburg Hardware store, Virginia Myers, Minters, Harris Brothers, A. and P. store, Dougherty and Hartley, Tobey's, Haines Shoe store, Murphy's, Martin's Shoe store, Varsity Barber Shop, Acme Market, Hoffman-Utz Barber Shop, Jacobs Brothers Grocery, Home Furniture company, Pitzer Tailor Shop, Zerling's, Coffman-Fisher company, Sherman's, The Tot Shop, Staub Grocery, Modern Miss Shop, The Shoe Box, City Market, Blocher's, Gilbert Cleaning Establishment, The Smart Shoppe, Anna Bierer Specialty Shop, Shamille Barber Shop, Thompson's Clothing Shop, Troy Laundry, Varsity Barber Shop, Mickle's Barber Shop, Royal Jewelers, Gilbert's Food Market, Lippy's, Brehm, the Tailor, Redding's Grocery, Warner's Gift Shop, Penrose Myers.

Draft Boards To Close On Monday

Selective Service Board No. 1, New Oxford, and the No. 2 board, Gettysburg, will be closed Armistice Day which will be observed this year on November 12, it was announced today.

Draft board officials pointed out that the New Oxford board is still in existence. The merger of the ration boards led to the impression among numerous servicemen and others, they said, that the board had been closed.

Registered Heifer Fatally Injured

A registered holstein heifer owned by W. O. Harbold, Dillsburg R. 1, was so badly injured when it ran into the side of an automobile at 4:55 p. m. Wednesday on route 15, three miles south of Dillsburg, that it will have to be destroyed, state police, who investigated the accident, said.

The automobile was operated by Balthana R. Dorsey, 136 Peck street, Rochester, N. Y., and was proceeding south when the heifer, one of a herd, ran into the right side of the car. The cows were being driven from the pasture to the barn. Damage to the automobile was estimated at $50.

BANKS SHOWING PHOTOS OF JAP, HUN SURRENDER

Adams county banks were displaying today enlarged copies of the original army signal corps photographs of both the German and the Japanese surrender ceremonies and copies of the surrender documents, in connection with the Victory Loan drive. The pictures were furnished by the war finance division of the U. S. Treasury department, and distributed by the Adams County War Finance committee, of which Edmund W. Thomas is chairman.

The original signal corps pictures are now touring the United States in a special railroad car in connection with the Victory Loan drive. The pictures show Gen. Douglas MacArthur signing the Jap surrender documents on the USS Missouri; Shigemitsu signing for Emperor Hirohito and the actual instrument of surrender with the signatures of Admiral C. W. Nimitz and the representatives of China, Great Britain, Australia, Canada, the provisional government of the French republic, the Netherlands, New Zealand and Japan.

Jap Credentials

An enlarged copy of Shigemitsu's credentials from Hirohito authorizing him to affix his name to the surrender document, in Japanese characters, together with a translation in English, is also shown in connection with the Jap surrender pictures.

The name "Jodi" occupies a large and prominent position on the unconditional surrender documents signed at Rheims, France, by Col. Gen. Gustav Jodi, on behalf of the German high command, ending the war in the European theater. Pictures also show the act of military surrender. Signatures of representatives of the Allied high command, the Soviet high command and the French army are also affixed to surrender document.

Last Man's Club To Banquet On Monday

The American Legion Last Man's club will hold its annual Armistice Day banquet Monday evening at 7:15 o'clock at the Battlefield hotel with the Rev. George H. Berkheimer, Arendtsville, former army chaplain and veteran of duty in the Pacific, as the speaker.

The annual election of officers will be held during the evening. Two members of the club have died since the club's last dinner a year ago — William H. Allison and Roy Mackley.

Shoe Company Seeks Emmitsburg Location

Representatives of the Waynesboro Shoe Manufacturing company met with the town citizens and Lions club committee on Tuesday evening, George Whitlde, head of the committee said that plans were discussed for bringing the factory to Emmitsburg. A suitable site must be obtained and manner of raising funds, if necessary, be decided upon.

Robert E. Sentz Is Commissioned Ensign

Robert E. Sentz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Sentz, Littlestown R. 2, was commissioned as an ensign in the United States Naval Reserve in ceremonies held last Friday in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York city.

James Forrestal, secretary of the Navy, was the speaker. Ensign Sentz left this morning to report at Harvard university, Boston, to attend a Supply school.

QUIZZED IN BURGLARIES

Capt. Pa., Nov. 8 (AP)—Detective Captain Roy Mong announced today a 22-year-old Erie man was being questioned about a long series of bedroom burglaries which have frightened housewives and brought about an intense police hunt for a "tall thin man with a long black coat."

New shipment of all-wool sweaters, sizes 1 to 14 years also 34 to 46, The Smart Shoppe, "The Little Shoppe on Carlisle Street."

FURNITURE MEN HEAR OPA PLAN; LUMBER SCARCE

Lumber is scarcer today than at any time during the war, J. C. McCarthy, secretary of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers declared to 75 furniture manufacturers, heads of shipping departments, railroad officials and claims representatives attending a clinic Wednesday at the Gettysburg furniture factories' showrooms. Mr. McCarthy spoke at a noon luncheon in the Hotel Gettysburg.

Reasons for the scarcity, the speaker said, were the labor shortage, hopes for higher ceilings, and the fact that many concerns have made their sales and profits for the year. Discussing OPA plans, Mr. McCarthy said:

"The OPA is not interested in the better qualities of furniture. It has two programs. It wants the unfinished type of furniture to come back, and it proposes to give adjustments to all manufacturers on the low and medium ends, none on the high."

Plans Tentative

Mr. McCarthy discussed in trade terms these adjustments, mark-ups on low-end furniture and ceiling prices. The present plans are only tentative, he said, and may be changed overnight.

Among those attending the luncheon were Russell S. Wehler, secretary of the York County Furniture Manufacturers association; A. L. Green and J. E. Roumillo, Association of American Railroads; C. E. France, division freight agent, Western Maryland Railway company, Hagerstown; L. H. Merideth, superintendent of transportation, Western Maryland railway, Hagerstown; J. H. LeCompte and T. J. Barron, Western Maryland claims agent, Baltimore; C. W. Myers, Gettysburg agent; H. R. Flynn, freight loading and container section, A.A.R.C., Chicago; B. H. Gifford and P. S. Miranda, official classification committee, New York city; Paul E. Baker, C. R. Seeley, York, and R. M. Buffington, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania railroad, and Charles D. Henderson, Philadelphia, H. S. Pressler, Harrisburg and H. W. Garvin, Gettysburg, Reading company.

LT. WARMAN IS AWARDED STAR

First Lt. Clayton D. Warman, 235 East Middle street, recently was awarded the Silver Star medal for gallantry in action in Germany on February 8. He is the son of Arthur W. Warman.

"At the hazardous Our river crossing, Lt. Warman's attacking platoon was delayed by severe enemy fire as it left the assault boats," reads the citation.

"Ordering his men to stay covered, Lt. Warman crawled over 50 yards of mined terrain, through heavy concentrations of machinegun fire, to destroy the hostile position with grenades."

"Lt. Warman's courage and devotion to duty exemplify the highest tradition of the armed forces of the United States."

Lt. Warman at the time was an infantry sergeant in the 318th Infantry Regiment. Announcement of the award was made by Maj. Gen. Horace L. McBride, commanding general of the 80th Infantry Division.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

A marriage license was issued at the court house today to Claude Hartman Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Miller, Littlestown, and Anna Marie Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Brown, Littlestown R. 2.

Mexican Ambassador Sends Greetings To Doctor Hanson

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Dr. Antonio Espinosa de Los Monteros, new Mexican ambassador to the United States, hopes to return to the scene of his student days at Gettysburg college where he received a bachelor degree in 1925.

The 42-year-old Mexican official presented his credentials to President Truman at the White House yesterday thereby becoming a full-fledged ambassador for the first time.

"I would like to send my warmest greetings to Gettysburg college and to Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president, who was one of my best friends and teachers," he told a reporter.

He wouldn't be pinned down, however, on when he would be able to visit Gettysburg saying: "Look at all the work I have to do."

Dr. Espinosa de Los Monteros, who speaks fluent English with just a shadow of Spanish accent, conferred for about ten minutes with Presi-

9 More Veterans File Discharges

Among discharges which have been filed in the court house here by former Adams county servicemen, are the following:

EASTERN STAR BANQUET HELD

The Rev. George H. Berkheimer, Arendtsville, was the principal speaker at the 21st anniversary banquet of the Gettysburg chapter of the Eastern Star Wednesday evening at the Hotel Gettysburg. More than 120 persons attended including husbands and other guests of the members. Out-of-county guests included persons from Chambersburg and Carlisle.

Dr. Frank Kramer, the worthy patron of the chapter, presided as toastmaster. The address of welcome was given by Mrs. Charles Kuhn of Cashtown, worthy matron. Mrs. Leone Deckman, Carlisle, district deputy grand master, spoke briefly.

Prof. Charles Yost of Biglerville, sang two solos accompanied by Mrs. Yost and also led group singing during the evening.

A turkey dinner was served. Banquet decorations were red, white and blue. Cards followed the dinner.

Some Free Concert Tickets Available

A few Victory Bond buyers have left the certification forms of their bonds at the Majestic theatre for distribution to those persons who are unable to purchase bonds and who desire to attend the Infantry Concert Group concert in Brusa chapel Friday evening, it was announced today.

Those who do not have certification forms and who desire to attend the concert are advised to call at the Majestic theatre where they will receive tickets for the concert in exchange for a twenty-five cent service charge. Only a few certification forms have been made available in this way and distribution will be made on the policy of first come, first served.

The case of Paul C. Ramer, Cashtown, arrested November 3 by Sheriff J. E. Millhimes on a surety of the peace charge, was continued by Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore, Wednesday afternoon, to December 5.

Ramer was held for court on a non-support charge, also preferred by his wife, N. Elaine Ramer. They have three children, Paul T. Shalia and Gary R. Ramer. Bail is $300.

HELD FOR COURT

Harry Wetzel, Fairfield R. 2, was held for the November term of court by Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore Wednesday afternoon, after pleading guilty to a serious charge filed by Virginia McGaughlin, Fairfield R. 2. He renewed bail of $500. Wetzel was arrested Monday afternoon by Sheriff J. E. Millhimes.

DOCTORS HEAR DANGERS CITED IN WAGNER LAW

Socialized medicine is a violation of the democratic principles of government and contrary to the laws under which the medical profession of the United States operates, controversial in administration, leading to confusion and a step toward totalitarian form of government, members of the Adams County Medical society and guests were told at a meeting in the basement of the Warner hospital nurses' home Wednesday night.

The speaker was Dr. C. L. Palmer, Pittsburgh, chairman of the public relations committee of the Medical Society of Pennsylvania, who discussed the provisions of the new Wagner-Murray-Dingle bill and other measures in Congress dealing with public health.

"The social insurance, or pre-paid health insurance amendment to the original social security bill is what the medical profession is most concerned about," Dr. Wagner said. "It provides that it shall be administered by the surgeon-general, in whom are vested powers to determine who shall be the doctors, who shall be designated as specialists, and type of medical care, among other things."

"Not Needed Here"

Dr. Palmer said that the bill, "handed by political parties in Washington, would cost an exorbitant sum, and lead to totalitarian government in this country." He declared that its provisions are "not needed in the United States," citing as an example the drop in diphtheria in this country as compared with Great Britain and Germany, which had forms of socialized medicine.

"The Wagner-Murray-Dingle bill was voted down in Congress last year," Mr. Palmer explained. "As introduced again in May and referred to the finance committee of the Senate, it provides the 1945 amendments to the original social security bill passed in 1936."

Declaring that the measure is contrary to the laws under which the profession operates, Dr. Palmer said that the courts have determined that the doctor's responsibility is to his patient. Each is an individual case, differing from other cases. "When bureaucrats tell you how many times you may call on a patient, or how much service you may render, you have removed the physician from the decisions of the courts."

Cites Confusion

"Whether the doctor is paid a salary, fees or on a per capita basis will be determined. He may allocate $1 per persons per month. Those who desire their own physician may be assigned someone they don't know if their own physician does not participate in the plan, or is ill or dies."

"The law would lead to many interpretations in many sections of the country and a confusion which would take 25 years to straighten out."

Under the provisions of the bill, each person in the plan would pay 4 per cent and each employer 4 per cent (Please Turn to Page 7)

TRINITY BOARD PLANS FOR XMAS

The Board of Trinity Evangelical and Reformed church school met with Mrs. C. Tyson Tipton and Miss Esther Tipton Wednesday evening. Devotions were in charge of the hostesses. Work for the Christmas season was discussed and the following committee was appointed to prepare the school's annual program: Mrs. Howard S. Fox, Mrs. C. Robert Deardorff, Miss Frances Gilbert, Miss Myrtle Sheely, Miss Marian Menchey, Mr. Clyde Spangler, Mrs. Elmer Yoder and John D. Eckert. Miss Alice Snyder, stewardship chairman, reported that she would again work with the classes in taking care of local needy cases by means of White Gifts to be presented at a special service.

Mrs. Fox, Beginners superintendent, said her department plans to have their Christmas party with parents in attendance early in December. Mrs. Donald Fissel reported new scholars in the Primary department and the beginning of an attendance contest. Miss Betty Teeter has been appointed as a teacher in the Junior department. In the Senior department it was reported that three classes of high school people have been combined into one class, taught by Elmer Yoder, and that the class has elected officers which will also serve as officers for the church's Youth Council.

The next meeting of the board will be held at the home of Mrs. Fissel on December 5. Following the business session a social hour was held with refreshments served by the hostesses.

When announcement of his appointment was made on September 13, he was head of the Nacional Financiera, Mexico's counterpart of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Jap Prisoner

This picture of Sergeant Henry B. Pecher, Adams countyman who came home last week after 40 months in Japanese prison camps, was taken in Japan in 1943 after he had been a prisoner for more than a year and had lost about 40 pounds. His weight later dropped 30 pounds lower. Now he is back almost to normal weight and is being treated at Valley Forge hospital for beriberi. He expects to come home again this week-end.

STATE OFFICERS OF ELKS LODGE DINNER GUESTS

"Lead the nation in Elkdom" is the goal of the Pennsylvania Elks association for the current year, Dr. Charles V. Hogan, Pottsville, president of the State association, told approximately 250 Elks at a testimonial dinner given by Gettysburg Lodge No. 1045 for state officers at the Elks home Wednesday evening.

Dr. Hogan outlined the work being done by the State organization in the way of the Elks Rehabilitation program for returning war veterans and urged the local lodge to increase its membership through the careful selection of returning veterans.

He asked that lodges make every effort to keep their lapsations at a new low and urged better ritualistic work by all. In an effort to have the state gain 100 per cent membership in the National Foundation for aid to crippled and under-privileged children, Dr. Hogan requested that wherever possible individual lodges turn over one $1,000 war bond to the foundation.

Urges More Members

Lee A. Donaldson, of Etna lodge, vice president of the state association, spoke briefly urging that a new membership mark be gained with particular attention being given to returning veterans. He said that California has taken the lead in membership from Pennsylvania and regaining that lead is one of the foremost goals of the state group.

Short talks were also given by Dr. Edward L. Davis, Berwick, sergeant-at-arms for the state organization; Homer Schreiber, district deputy grand exalted ruler of the South Central district, and T. Z. Minehart, Esq., Chambersburg.

Arthur R. Buehler, exalted ruler of the Gettysburg lodge, presided, and introduced the speakers, guests and past exalted rulers of the local lodge.

H. Earl Pitzer, past district deputy grand exalted ruler of the South Central district and a past exalted ruler of the Gettysburg lodge, introduced Dr. Hogan.

Visitors Attend

The invocation and benediction were given by Elmer W. Warren, chaplain of the local lodge.

The program concluded with the singing of one verse of "America." Paul Ecker presided at the piano.

Guests were present from Hagerstown, Pottsville, Etna, Williamsport, Carlisle, Chambersburg, Milton, Lebanon, Lancaster, Hanover, Middletown, Baltimore and Red Lion.

Pays $10 Fine On Trespass Charge

Arraigned today before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder on a trespass charge, Joseph Carver, Gettysburg, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

The information was filed by H. D. Crouse, Mt. Joy township, who charged Carver with hunting on his land, which was posted, on November 6, election day.

PAST GRANDS TO MEET

The November meeting of the Past Grands' association of the IOOF will be held next Monday evening at Littlestown after the regular meeting of Sylvania lodge.

New Shipment of 100% all-wool Cardigans, beautiful shades, Helen-Kay Shop, Chambersburg, Gettysburg.

BURKE C. SCOTT IS INDICTED ON MURDER CHARGE

The November grand jury this afternoon returned an indictment against Burke C. Scott, 16-year-old Latimore township youth, in the shooting of his father, Warwick Scott, at the Scott property on October 24.

John P. Butt, Esq., former district attorney, has been appointed by the court to defend young Scott at his trial which will take place during the regular term which opens next Tuesday.

No inquest ever was held in Scott's death but at the preliminary hearing before Justice John H. Basehore when the defendant was held for grand jury action, state police read into the record an alleged statement by young Scott that he had "cocked the gun and pulled the trigger" while it was pointing at his father.

It was believed unlikely that the murder case will be called first for trial when the November session convenes on Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Trial Lists Dwindling

The grand jury found "no true bill" against James R. Dupree, Washington, D. C., who had been charged by Mary J. Gebhart, Mt. Pleasant township, with driving a car without the owner's consent. Costs of the case were placed on the prosecutor.

The case against Philip McCaffrey, Littlestown, was continued again when the defense attorney, John P. Butt, Esq., presented a doctor's certificate stating that McCaffrey is seriously ill.

Prospects for a long term of court dwindled further today when the common pleas trial list dropped to two cases from an original seven.

The court this morning approved a compromise settlement of two damage actions that had been listed for trial next week. They were actions brought by Bernadette C. Baugher, wife of and administratrix of the estate of the late Howard J. Baugher of Berwick township. Mr. Baugher was fatally injured in a tractor-auto crash on the Hanover Abbottstown highway last May 19.

The court approved a compromise which provides for the payment of $1,500 in damages by Frederick J. F. Miller, McSherrystown, to Mrs. Baugher for herself and her two minor children, Kenneth and Eugene. Costs and attorney's fees are to be deducted under terms of the compromise. The case is to be marked "settled" as soon as terms of the agreement are carried out. Original claims filed in the suits totaled $20,000.

The only civil suits now listed for trial are the replevin action by Harry E. Jacobs against Margaret G. Shindelecker and the damage action by Harold C. Gabler against Dwight L. and Paul Strausbaugh as executors of the will of Edward F. Strausbaugh.

Civil cases are now scheduled to go on trial by Thursday.

35 MERCHANTS TO BUY BONDS

Thirty-five retail merchants of Gettysburg will participate in the Victory Retail Day to be observed here on Friday, Mares Sherman, chairman of the Retail Division of the Adams County War Finance Committee, announced today.

The merchants have pledged themselves to purchase Victory Bonds with their entire receipts of Friday, Retail Day, Mr. Sherman said. This is a custom inaugurated during one of the early war bond drives and the results were "most encouraging and helpful in attaining the county quota," the chairman said.

COMMUNISTS IN CHINA DEMAND U. S. APOLOGIZE

By SPENCER MOOSA
Chungking, Nov. 8 (AP)—Chinese communists demanded today that Lt. Gen. Albert G. Wedemeyer, U. S. commander in China, apologize and that compensation be paid for alleged American "interference" in China's internal struggle.

The Reds also demanded that Chinese government troops withdraw from all Red-dominated areas, as the price for peace, but asserted that the government, instead, was planning an all-out offensive for which 90 divisions already were being massed in the north.

The demand for Wedemeyer's apology was contained in one of four protesting letters sent to the American commander by the communists' Yenan headquarters.

Spokesmen at the communist headquarters at Yenan called "a complete lie," government claims that the nationalists have been and would remain strictly on the defensive. More than 70 government divisions have massed around "liberated areas" of Hunan province, and Hsueh province is surrounded by more than 20 government divisions, the communists asserted.

Followed Red Withdrawal

Chou En-Lai, Yenan negotiator here and No. 2 Chinese communist, announced the Yenan answer to Kuomintang peace proposals shortly after reports that the Russians had withdrawn from the Manchurian ports of Huiliao and Yingkou (Nechwang), leaving the Chinese Reds in command, heightened the already tense atmosphere.

Chou said the communists demanded that the Kuomintang withdraw to positions outside the "liberated" areas before the civil fighting began and order all nationalist troops to cease firing.

The worried looking communist representative told newsmen of the Yenan reply to Chiang Kai-shek's offer and said he would deliver it to nationalist government officials later today.

Chou said he would propose a neutral committee be formed to investigate civil war conditions, and in almost the same breath charged Chiang Kai-shek with attempting to exterminate the Communists, while holding peace parleys with them. The investigating committee also would consider activities of American troops in disputed areas.

Report "Liquidation" Order
 The Communists have obtained proof that while the peace negotiations were under way, Chiang ordered his northern generals to "liquidate" the Communists, Chou said.

Orders captured from a government plane downed in the Chiatso coal mine region in Northern Honan, instructed Yen Hsi-shan, governor of Shansi, in "bandit suppression."

Other orders for "full fledged liquidation of bandits," were given Gen. Hu Tsung-nan, First War Zone commander, and to Gen. Tao Shun-sun, Eighth Army commander, Chou said. The orders were captured when Kao and 10,000 of his men laid down their arms and refused to continue fighting against the Communists.

Set Back for Government

Other developments among the growing signs of crisis were:
 1. The Central government admitted receiving its first serious set back in the fighting in Southern Hope province.

2. Communists followed up the announcement in Washington that American Marines would be withdrawn from the trouble zone with a series of four protests to the American commander in Yenan, and held the Americans "responsible for any grave consequence" resulting from their presence.

The reported Russian withdrawal in Manchuria posed still further troubles for the Central government, and greater delays in the landing of Kuomintang troops, none of which have been reported actually landed from American transports as yet.

The turning over of the ports to the Communists would strengthen their position in the area where they have opposed bitterly the presence of the Americans.

The protests, which the Communists' New China Daily News said were addressed to the "chief of the American military mission in Yenan," were written by Chu Teh, Communist commander in chief, and Yeh Ching-yin, commander of the Eighth Army.

JOINS LOCAL FIRM

L. C. Hamme, formerly of Gettysburg and recently of York, is now associated with the H & H Machine Shop, South Washington street, as sales manager for Pontiac cars. The H & H Machine Shop has just recently been appointed local dealer for Pontiac cars. Mr. Hamme was associated with Chevrolet while in Gettysburg and in York. His family will move here in the near future.

BUYS PROPERTY

Charles Harner purchased the property of the Hopp estate sold at public sale on Saturday for $13,000. The property includes the Hopp home, barbershop and store formerly operated by "Chic" Rosensteel. Mr. Harner plans to make the property over into apartments and a recreation center.

"Wings Of Victory" Army Fliers Killed

Elmira, N. Y., Nov. 8 (AP)—Six army fliers were killed today when two planes collided over Chemung county airport.

Airport officials said the planes were from the Treasury Department's "Wings of Victory" armada.

The dead were not immediately identified.

Five of the men were in a B-25 bomber and the other was flying a P-47 Thunderbolt.

Officials said the planes had just taken off and were about 100 feet off the ground when the wing tips collided.

Both planes burst into flames and crashed.

The fliers were en route to Stewart Field, near West Point, after an Eighth Victory Loan trip. They took off from Mitchell Field.

COUNTIANS ON PACIFIC SHIPS

Gunner's Mate 3/c Laverne Franklin Hess, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Hess, Gettysburg, is serving on the USS Arenac, an attack troop transport operating between the Philippines and the Japanese homeland. He has been in the service 23 months. A graduate of Gettysburg high school, Hess was employed by the C. H. Musselman company before entering the service. He hopes to return to school when he is discharged.

S 2/c Matthew H. Lopp, 128 West Middle street, Gettysburg, helped the light cruiser Birmingham build up a record of 138,000 miles of sea travel, during which the ship took part in most of the major Pacific campaigns before she was assigned the duty of bringing veterans home.

The cruiser is credited with 16 planes, more than 3,000 tons of shipping and attacks on many shore installations. She was damaged twice during the course of her operations, her honor roll showing 284 killed, 507 wounded and 11 missing. Awards to her men total 533, among them the navy cross, silver star, air medal and bronze star medal.

Electrician 3/c Clair E. Shermeyer, Gettysburg R. 5, and other crewmen serving aboard the destroyer Helm, helped take this ship through 11 major operations in the Pacific by the time the Japs surrendered. The Helm was caught in the Pearl Harbor attack. She took part in the Guadalcanal and Tulagi landings, the eastern New Guinea operations, Bismarck archipelago, Marianas and Carolines actions and Leyte battles. Early this year the Helm participated in the Luzon operations and later figured in the Two Jima and Okinawa engagements.

Notice Served On Indonesians

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—British Maj. Gen. E. C. Mansergh was reported by the Netherlands news agency Aneta today to have served notice on Indonesian leaders at Soerabaja, Java naval base, that he was bringing in sufficient troops to disarm all Indonesians except an agreed upon number of police.

G-M PROPOSAL REJECTED AND SHOWDOWN DUE

Detroit, Nov. 8 (AP)—An immediate showdown on union demands for a 30 per cent wage rate increase for the nation's auto workers was foreseen today after the United Auto Workers (CIO) flatly rejected a compromise wage adjustment program offered Wednesday by General Motors corporation.

Simultaneously, early returns from yesterday's National Labor Relations board election among 80,000 Ford company employees showed a heavy majority favored a strike to support the wage requests.

No reports were available on balloting in Ford plants in the Detroit area, but Ford workers at Kansas City, Buffalo, N. Y., and Green Island, N. Y., recorded overwhelming sentiment in favor of a strike.

Both General Motors and Chrysler corporation employees recently endorsed the possible strike action to support wage demands.

The General Motors proposal, offered Wednesday, was criticized by UAW spokesmen, who termed it "inflationary."

H. W. Anderson, G-M vice president, said virtually all of the company's 180,000 hourly rated employees would be eligible for the boost, which he estimated at "eight to ten per cent."

A union spokesman declared that a "large minority" of GM workers would not get any increases under the company's plan.

Assailed By Reuther

Anderson said the company proposal would boost wages of all hourly rated employees up to 30 per cent above what they were receiving in the same job classification January 1, 1941. He explained the increase would be based on the amount of cost of living adjustment given individual employees.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO vice president, assailed what he termed inflationary results of such a proposal.

Asserting the union "will not be a party to sand-bagging the American consumer," Reuther said General Motors refused to offer "any increase—even one per cent—with the agreement that they would not seek price increases on the basis of the wage raise."

Anderson replied that it was up to the corporation, not the union, to decide whether it should seek price increases to offset any wage boosts.

Lacking assurance the company would not seek price hikes to compensate for the 8-10 per cent offer, Reuther said "such a course as the corporation proposes would limit the sale and production of cars and pave the way for inflation and a quick depression."

ATOMIC BOMB FORCES ISSUE ON TRAINING

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
 Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson testified today development of the atomic bomb made essential prompt adoption of universal military training.

"There is only one justification for the establishment of a universal military program," Patterson said. "It is needed to give the United States security and to make it possible for us to underwrite world peace. That is the only basis for asking that every young American give a year of his life to such training."

Patterson was the first witness as the House military committee began consideration of President Truman's Oct. 22 request for immediate approval of legislation to build up a trained reserve through compulsory peacetime training.

Patterson said many people "have convinced themselves that all we shall need in a future crisis are a supply of atomic bombs and a competitive handful of trained men to push the buttons that will set off the bombs."

But, he added, he knew of "no responsible military authority who shares that belief."

"On the contrary," he declared, "all are agreed that the bomb's capacity for destruction and the suddenness with which it can strike enormously increase the need for maintaining in every section of the United States trained citizen-soldiers capable of swift mobilization in the event of an atomic or airborne attack."

He said no one knows ultimate potentialities of the new weapon. "But we know enough to know that it has made war more terrible and more total than ever before."

"There would be no non-combatants in a future war; every man, woman or child would be in the danger zone," he warned.

Both Patterson and Secretary of Navy Forrestal, who also was called as a witness, have in the past advocated a program requiring every young man to take a year of military training.

He was accompanied home by his mother, Mrs. Kate Hartman, who had been with her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Bream, for several days. Col. Hartman is now on terminal leave from the army.

William Jester, who is a student at the University of Maryland, College Park, was recently pledged to the Sigma Chi national fraternity. Jester, a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Clayton Jester, Heidlersburg road, was graduated from Biglerville high school in June.

CANNERS MEET SUSQUEHANNA FRIDAY AT 2:30

An epidemic of gripe which has swept the ranks of the Biglerville high school football squad may prove costly Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when the Canners clash with Susquehanna township in the final home game of the season for the upper countians.

For the first time in a week Coach "Hen" Bream had a full squad turn out for practice Wednesday but the condition of the players is uncertain. However, the squad is free of injuries and the Biglerville mentor expects to be able to send his regular starters against Susquehanna.

With the exception of J. Pitzer, left tackle; Sillick, center, and Baugher, reserve lineman, all of the Biglerville regulars will be palping their final games.

Nine Seniors

The group of seniors include Dave Pitzer, Sandoe, Utz and Bucher in the backfield, and Walters, Miller, Brough, Rice and VanDyke from the forward wall.

Susquehanna will bring a good club to Biglerville. Last week the team scored a 20-0 victory over Lemoyne and reports have it that the visitors have been showing improvement with each week of play.

The Susquehanna lineup will include: Reed, Morganthaler, Folk, Moore, Leitner, Wagner and Hoffman on the line and Crist, Burney, Eslinger and Reigle in the backfield.

GRANTED DIVORCE

Mrs. Ruth E. Harmon, Harrisburg, was granted a divorce Wednesday in Harrisburg from Benjamin G. Harmon, York Springs R. 1. The couple was married at Gardners March 10, 1928, and separated May 25, 1936. Cruelty and indignities were charged.

A Thank-Offering service will be held by the Women's Guild in the Zion Reformed church during the worship service Sunday morning, November 18, at 11 o'clock. The meeting had been previously announced for November 25.

Mrs. Amos Sheely was hostess to the Carnation Guild at her home this afternoon.

The Rev. and Mrs. Nevin R. Frantz and Mrs. Frantz's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith, are spending several days in Philadelphia.

Capt. and Mrs. Henry Thomas have returned from a visit in York.

Miss Grace Boyer, Harrisburg, recently spent a few days with her sister, Miss Eva Boyer.

Mrs. Earl Trostel entertained the Blue Ribbon club at her home this afternoon.

NEW JOBS ARE OPEN TO VETS

More than 25 returned war veterans and ex-war workers are being offered jobs in the pulp and paper industry, though an intensive recruitment campaign being conducted in Gettysburg under the sponsorship of the Pulp and Paper Industry and the United States Employment Service, E. A. Crouse, manager of the local USES office announced today.

The local campaign is part of a national recruitment program to help overcome manpower shortages in America's sixth largest industry, which is expanding its operations to meet vastly increased demands for pulp and paper products in the reconversion period. The program gives ex-servicemen and ex-war workers an opportunity to accept one of the many jobs now available in the pulp and paper industry, upon which peacetime readjustments depend in large measure.

Numerous jobs as pulpwood cutters, loaders, haulers and pulp and paper mill workers are now available in this area and in many other parts of Pennsylvania. The immediate referral of applicants to a job of his choosing anywhere in the state now may be made through the local U. S. Employment Service Office, Mr. Crouse said.

"The jobs offered are in a stable industry, which will witness its greatest expansion in the years just ahead," said Mr. Crouse. "It is reported to be the first industry to join forces with the U. S. Employment Service in an effort to rehire without delay those who went into the armed forces or took jobs in defense plants, shipyards or other war industries during the war period."

Special Services At Foursquare Church

Annual Harvest Home services will be held at the Foursquare Gospel church Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock with a Harvest Home message being delivered by the pastor, the Rev. Harold Myers, at 10:45 o'clock.

A new record attendance is being sought for the Sunday school hour and prizes will be awarded to the oldest mother present and the largest family. The pastor will give a Bible to the member bringing in the most people not members of another Sunday school.

An inspirational song service with music by musicians from Harrisburg will be held at 7:30 p. m.

Factory versus Farm:
A Draw

Mel Bates and Jud Polk were arguing the other day about the factory versus the farm. Jud has a job in the tool works and Mel grows the best corn in the county.

"Where would you farmers be," Jud says, "if it weren't for the factories that make your plows and tractors?"

"And where would you factory workers be," says Mel, "unless we farmers grew the food that keeps you going?"

MAROONS PLAY MECHANICSBURG IN FINAL TILT

A final opportunity to crash into the victory column will be offered the Gettysburg high football team Friday evening when Mechanicsburg is met here in a Southern Pennsylvania conference game which will wind up the 1945 campaign for the Maroons. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

Coach "Bill" Ridinger has announced two changes in the starting lineup. Bob Heyser will replace Earl Forry at guard. Forry having suffered a sprained left elbow in last week's tilt with Hershey. Don Bucher, who showed up so well at halfback as a substitute against Hershey, has been selected to replace Al McDonnell at left half.

The remainder of the locals' lineup will remain intact. On the line will be Rasmussen, Sharrar, Cole, Sheffer, Sterner and Taylor with Mattingly, Wolfgang and Joe Hess rounding out the backfield.

Wildcats' Record
Mechanicsburg, always a tough opponent for Gettysburg, has won but three games this year while losing four and tying another. The Wildcats whipped Swatara township 12-0, Scotland 16-0 and Shippenburg 19-6. The team bowed to John Harris 37-0; Hershey 6-0; Hanover 12-6, and New Cumberland 13-0 while playing a 7-7 deadlock with Waynesboro.

Coach Ridinger took his outfit to Scotland Tuesday for a drill against the Scotland Industrial school eleven.

While Mechanicsburg must be rated the favorite on the basis of its record, the Maroons are conceding nothing and have high hopes of winding up the season with their first victory. If the locals can show the form against the Wildcats they exhibited against the league-leading Hershey clan in the first half last week a surprise may be forthcoming.

Other Games
Top game billed in the South Penn circuit for Friday night is the Hanover-Hershey battle at Hershey. Hanover has an excellent chance of halting the Trojans and a Nighthawk victory would not be surprising.

Shippenburg plays at Waynesboro in the other tilt booked for Friday night while on Saturday afternoon Carlisle and Chambersburg clash in an important tilt at Chambersburg.

Tickets for the Gettysburg-Mechanicsburg game will be on sale at the Peoples Drug store until game time it was announced today by Robert Sheads, faculty manager of athletics.

DEATH CLAIMS SWEDE LARSON
Colonel E. E. "Swede" Larson had a number of friends in Gettysburg. Several years ago he was the principal speaker at a football dinner to local grid teams at the Elks club.

Atlanta, Nov. 8 (AP)—Colonel Emory Ellsworth "Swede" Larson, famous football figure and veteran of two wars, is dead.

The passing of the 46-year-old colonel of marines here yesterday stunned grid fans who had followed his career, first as a player and later as coach of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The end came after the third of a series of heart attacks. He was first stricken about two weeks ago and removed to the U. S. Naval Air Station hospital.

A big, likeable man with a booming voice "Swede" was known for his inspirational leadership and for the "jinx" he held over Army. In the three years he played center in 1919, 1920, and 1921 and the three years he coached, 1939, 1940 and 1941, Navy scored six straight victories over the West Point Cadets.

During the 1941 game, played at Philadelphia a slim week before Pearl Harbor, Army held a 6-0 half-time lead only to have the Middles rally after the intermission for two third period touchdowns and a 14-6 triumph.

In the dressing room afterwards he told reporters "this will be the last football game for me for quite a while. There's a bigger game coming up and I'm going to be in it."

Andersson, Haegg, Classed As Pros

Stockholm, Nov. 8 (AP)—Arne Andersson and Gunder Haegg, world-record holding Swedish runners, and 13 top-ranking Swedish track stars, were declared professionals today by the Swedish Athletic Association, the newspaper Expressen said.

There was no official announcement as yet from the association, which has been conducting a sweeping investigation into the entire Swedish track setup.

Earlier the association announced a finding that payments of fees to top Swedish track stars by leading sports clubs constituted a breach of amateur regulations and indicated there would be disciplinary measures against both clubs and performers. The association did not name the individuals involved, and had announced it would not do so until completion of the nationwide inquiry.

A finding that Andersson is professional would cancel his projected trip to the United States for the indoor season this winter.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
When ex-marine Tom Smith reported for football his first day on the Penn State campus, Coach Bob Higgins quizzed him about his experience. . . Tom told about playing for Erasmus Hall in Brooklyn in 1941, then casually added: "Charlie Speidel told me to report to you."

"Why," gasped Higgins, "Charlie is way out in the Pacific." . . Said Smith: "So was I."

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE—
Word from the west coast is that Lt. Frank Leahy won't go back to Notre Dame as Naval ROTC athletic officer because his orders were suddenly cancelled. The best guess now is that Leahy is about to be "separated."

CLEANING THE CUFF—
Southern Association umpires likely will breathe easier now that Fresno Thompson has been called in from New Orleans to do "field work" for the Dodgers. One of Fresno's best stunts was to argue until an ump pulled the rule book from his hip pocket, then Thompson would exclaim: "What do you know? A rule book printed in Braille."

Philadelphia, Nov. 8 (AP)—Phil Terry Fox, fullback for the Philadelphia Eagles in 1941, has been discharged from the marine corps and will rejoin the National football league club Sunday when the Eagles meet the New York Giants here.

Coach Earle "Greasy" Neale calls Fox one of the hardest tacklers he has ever seen.

Philadelphia, Nov. 8 (AP)—The University of Pennsylvania basketball team, defending eastern intercollegiate league champions, will play 17 games this season, director of athletics H. Jamison Swarts announced.

The schedule: Dec. 8, Dartmouth, away; 12, Swarthmore, away; 15, Cornell, home; 22, Princeton, away; Jan. 5, Dartmouth, home; 9, Valley Forge hospital, away; 13, Yale, away; 16, Army, away; 19, Columbia, home; 23, Muhlenberg, away; 26, St. Joseph's, home; 30, Navy, away; Feb. 2, Cornell, away; 6, Coast Guard, away; 9, Princeton, home; 12, Columbia, away; 16, Navy, home.

Philadelphia, Nov. 8 (AP)—A 21-game court schedule has been scheduled for St. Joseph's college which opens its 45th season Dec. 5 against Washington university of Chestertown, Md., says Coach Billy Ferguson.

The schedule: Dec. 5, Washington college, home; 8, Utah, home; 12, Cathedral college, home; 15, Lafayette, away; 29, North Carolina, home; Jan. 1, Wyoming, home; 5, St. John's (Brooklyn), away; 9, Catholic university, away; 19, Rhode Island State, home; 26, Pennsylvania, home; 30, Elizabethtown college, home; Feb. 2, LaSalle, home; 6, Albright, home; 9, Juniata, home; 13, Brooklyn Polytech, home; 16, Rhode Island State, away; 20, Muhlenberg, away; 20, CCNY, home; March 2, Temple, home.

Villanova, Pa., Nov. 8 (AP)—Villanova's Wildcats, conquered by Navy, Holy Cross, Tennessee and Army—four of the top teams in the nation—seek win No. 4 Sunday night in their season's finale against the Boston college Eagles here.

Victory over the Eagles would give Villanova an even split of a rock-ribbed 1945 schedule. The Wildcats previously defeated Scranton, Detroit and Marquette.

Philadelphia, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Dragons of Drexel Tech, determined to regain winning ways after dropping two decisions in a row, polished up on defense tactics today in preparation for Saturday's battle with Johns Hopkins university at Baltimore.

Coach Maury McMain tried various combinations of second-string men to fill the holes in the forward wall caused when four regulars were injured in last week's fray with Delaware.

HARD WORK ON SCHEDULE FOR BOSTON BRAVES

Boston, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Boston Braves needed a baseball miracle to win their last National league pennant in 1914 but, Billy Southworth, their new manager, vows, they'll be able to thank hard work for their next one.

"Pennant winners can't be built overnight and I can't work miracles," Southworth said as he signed a three-year contract that provided him with "the opportunity that comes to a baseball manager only once in his career."

"I have my work cut out for me here but I'll be on the job 24 hours a day and I'm confident that eventually we'll reach our goal."

Many Weak Spots
"The Braves have plenty of weak spots to be sure, but the club also has many fine players and every effort possible will be made to gain added strength," Southworth added.

While announcing the signing of Southworth to a three-year contract, reported to be for a $30,000 annual salary, President Lou Perini of the Braves, said that money would be no object in the search for much-needed playing talent.

He intimated that he and his stockholders, also wealthy contractors, were prepared to startle baseball again and again with six figure deals equal in magnitude to the one that got them Pitcher Mort Cooper from the Cardinals last season.

The famed "Billy the Kid" does not expect to reveal his coaching choices until the December baseball meeting and plans to get the Tribesmen off to an early spring training start at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where, he said, two stiff practice sessions would be the daily routine.

PIRATES NAME GENERAL MGR.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Pittsburgh baseball club today named Ray L. Kennedy, 50-year-old business manager of the Newark club of the International league, to the newly-created job of general manager of the Pirates.

The announcement said that Kennedy, a former minor league catcher, will assist President William E. Benswanger but "will not sit in authority over Manager Frankie Frisch."

Kennedy will begin his duties January 1. Born in Pittsburgh, Kennedy played on various sandlot teams before signing with the St. Louis Browns in 1916.

Following a hitch in the army during World War I, he caught for the Browns' club at Greenville, S. C., and, in a varied minor league career, played on teams from Florida to New York.

He was catching for Jersey City of the International league when the New York Yankees signed him to manager their Binghamton, N. Y., club in 1932. Two years later the Yankees moved him to Newark as business manager.

The Pittsburgh club announced that Scout Hollis Thurston, who had represented the Pirates on the Pacific coast for the past 10 years, was released to become coach and scout for Hollywood of the Pacific coast league.

NAZI SABOTEUR VOLUNTEERS AID

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—One of the eight German saboteurs landed by U-boats in 1942 made a beeline for the FBI and spilled the details of their mission.

This tip resulted in the group being rounded up within 14 days, ruining their plans to wreck TVA—source of power for the atomic bomb project—and other key war and communications projects.

Disclosing this in a statement, Attorney General Tom C. Clark said arrest of the group caused the Germans to change plans to send over a batch of saboteurs by submarine every six weeks.

The informer, George Dascher, contacted FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover soon after slipping ashore with $80,000 in cash and boxes of explosives. He said he and Ernest Burger, another of the saboteurs, had agreed to notify the FBI.

Dascher had lived in the United States from 1922 to 1941 when he returned to Germany.

Burger had served 17 months in a concentration camp for criticizing the Nazi party.

Young Amateur Takes Golf Lead

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 8 (AP)—Rotund Fred Corcoran, tournament manager for the Professional Golfers Association, wore a broad smile today. It was a smile fostered by an unheralded 24-year-old amateur from Memphis, Tenn., who was in the driver's seat as the final 36 holes of the $5,000 north and south open tournament began.

Scoring a dazzling 69 in which he needed only 11 putts on each nine, Lt. Cary Middlecoff, army dentist and a recent eye patient at Valley Forge, Pa., hospital, brought his 36-hole total yesterday to 139 in the 44th Annual Carolina classic to lead the field by a stroke.

The erstwhile leaders Denny Shute of Akron, Ohio, and Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., although dropping off eight strokes from their initial 66 to 74s yesterday, were hot on Middlecoff's trail, only a stroke behind, with the real pressure turned on today.

Forty-three players remained of the 120 who began the second round yesterday. Top score to qualify for the final was 150.

STATE AND OWLS SEEK BOWL BIDS

(By The Associated Press)
Penn State and Temple will play a football game Saturday in the relative privacy of State College, Pa., that will have more effect on the January first bowl pairings than such headline-grabbing classics as Army-Notre Dame, Penn-Columbia and Navy-Michigan.

With the possible exception of Army, the "big" teams are not expected to go "bowling on New Year's Day" but either Penn State or Temple and possibly both may be open to invitations.

The Sugar, Cotton and Orange bowl folks are reported to be interested in Ray Morrison's unbeaten, untied Owls and they might shift to the Nittany Lions if Joe Tepic gets hot and runs wild against the visitors.

Against two common foes, Bucknell and Syracuse, the Owls and Lions shape up as a good match. Temple walloped Bucknell 64-0, compared to a 46-7 romp over the same club by State. However, the State College lads thumped Syracuse, 26-0, while the Philadelphians just did squeeze out a 7-6 edge over the Orange.

Andy Kerr, of Colgate, rates State on a par with Holy Cross, barring them from a perfect season if they can win Saturday.

The Penn-Columbia tilt is shaping up as a real offensive show with Gene Rossides and Lou Kuserow strutting their stuff for unbeaten Columbia against Bob Evans, Bob Deuber and Don Schneider. It shapes up as one of the most interesting games to be played in the east this year.

Coed Says Man Hit Her With Hammer

Ambler, Pa., Nov. 8 (AP)—Justine Hume, 18-year-old Stamford, Conn. girl told Upper Dublin township police today she was struck on the head a half dozen times with a hammer wielded by a passing motorist last night and knocked unconscious as she waited for a bus on a street corner.

The girl was stitched by the roadside. Several stitches were necessary to close five deep gashes in her scalp.

Miss Hume, a student of the school of horticulture for women here, said a sedan drove up so close I thought it would knock me down. "Something hit me—I thought it was the side mirror on the car," she recounted. "Then I saw a man leaning out the window with a horrible leer on his face. He had a big hammer in his hand. I was so scared I just froze. The hammer seemed to pass before my face and then it came down on my head with an awful crash. x x x As I sank to my knees he hit me four or five times more."

Disclosing this in a statement, Attorney General Tom C. Clark said arrest of the group caused the Germans to change plans to send over a batch of saboteurs by submarine every six weeks.

CONN TO QUIT EXHIBITIONS FOR BIG BOUT

Kansas City, Nov. 8 (AP)—Billy Conn, the fancy boxing Irishman from Pittsburgh, says he is convinced that exhibition fighting is a "heck of a poor way" to get in condition for his championship bout with heavyweight King Joe Louis next June.

That's why, he said after a 3-round appearance here last night, he is quitting "show off" stuff in favor of serious training for a return engagement with the brown bomber.

"You can tell the world I'm through with exhibitions," the handsome ex-army corporal declared. He had just trudged through a slow practice session with Bearcat Jones, a sparring specialist from Pittsburgh.

"Fans don't realize it's only an exhibition," Conn explained. "They expect me to show the same boxing skill I used that night in 1941 when I boxed rings around Louis for twelve rounds before I got careless."

Overweight and not up to his usual speed, Conn threw a few fast hooks at the Bearcat in the last minute of the exhibition, but he admitted that he had a "long way to go" before he's ready for Louis.

"I'm going to spend some time on road work at Hot Springs, Ark., Conn said, "then I'm going to return to Pittsburgh and start mixing it with good sparring partners. I'm certain I can lick Louis this time—I don't plan to spoil my chances running around the country showing off."

With the possible exception of Army, the "big" teams are not expected to go "bowling on New Year's Day" but either Penn State or Temple and possibly both may be open to invitations.

EXPLOSIVE FIND

Chicago, Nov. 8 (AP)—Dickie Butzen, 9, and Donald Biedermann, 12, unearthed a heavy box in the "fox-hole" they dug in a vacant lot as they played a war game. They lugged the box to Dickie's home and his mother, Lucille, after taking one look at it, called police. Detectives James Garvey and Frank Brady of the bomb squad counted out 50 sticks of dynamite.

Jap Ambassador To Be Returned

Bedford, Pa., Nov. 8 (AP)—Hiroshi Oshima, Japanese ambassador to Germany, and 184 other Jap internees quartered in Bedford Springs Hotel will soon be returned to their occupied homeland, a State Department special agent announced today. Jap diplomats, their staffs and their families likely will leave here the first of the week, the agent said. Oshima and his corps were captured in Germany when the Nazis capitulated and arrived here for internment last August 8. Other groups, including naval officials, arrived later.

And convince them nothing's lost Staying true at any cost.

Sell them: for their country's good, Tolerance and brotherhood.

Wanted, salesmen, night and day, Who can sell the better way.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON JUMPING TO SOON
To think accurately is the most valuable asset anyone can have. It is a life-time effort to obtain, yet its value increases with each day if one wills it so.

Taking the plunge without thinking often teaches a great deal, but it often leaves one sorely crippled. It is better to think first and then take the plunge.

Quick thinking and the ability to make a decision promptly are what mark the man of action and the leader. But he who jumps too soon is usually thrown into a state of confusion and discouragement. He faces problems for which he has not been prepared. He is forced to put his own self-respect to shame, and to ask the loan of enterprise that does not belong to him.

Enthusiasm is a wonderful asset, but it has to be harnessed and given a definite road to travel. Blind enthusiasm gets nowhere.

The old adage "Think before you leap" is a valuable one for all of us to keep constantly in mind. It has saved many a headache and many a serious disaster.

Plan and preparation are two of the most important considerations for anyone to bear in mind as life takes form and substance. Both should precede a decision to take any step that might be a handicap if taken wrongly.

There should be an invisible little fellow ever at our elbow, whispering to us at important moments in life: "Don't jump too soon!"

All regrets are vain, and the excuse for them is usually that the one expressing them failed to think, failed to consider the consequences, and jumped too soon.

We are not only our brother's keeper to a very great extent, but we should realize that we are our own keeper to a much greater extent and that our actions and decisions usually affect the lives of others in a multitude of ways. No one can live to himself alone and be either content or happy.

Think! Think all sides. Then jump — and jump with vigor and enthusiasm!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Retaliation"

Boy, 5, Victim Of Hunting Accident

Waynesburg, Pa., Nov. 8 (AP)—Five-year-old Francis Pelly of Wind Ridge was killed by the accidental discharge of a shotgun yesterday in a hunting tragedy.

The boy's older brother, Wesley, 16, and his father, James Wesley Pelly, started from home to hunt squirrels. Francis followed them.

Wesley loaded his gun and swung it up on his shoulder. At that moment Francis topped a rise in the road behind his brother. The impact of the gun on Wesley's shoulder caused it to go off, the charge striking Francis in the heart.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Judge McPherson Is Returned to Office: Republican candidates carried their standard to an overwhelming victory in Tuesday's general election throughout Adams county.

With but one district to be heard from Judge McPherson in Adams county had an unofficial majority of George J. Benner, his Democratic opponent, of 1482 votes.

H. B. Bender Is Lone Democrat to Cop Office: With only one exception, Republicans were elected to fill every office in Gettysburg Borough in Tuesday's general election. The single exception is Harry B. Bender, who topped the list of four candidates for the two school board positions to be filled. Mahlon P. Hartzell, a Republican, ran second high and will be seated with Mr. Bender on the reorganized school board after the first of the year.

Local Man Is Wedded in York: The wedding of John D. Bailey, of Gettysburg, and Miss Grace Myrtle Benson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Benson, York, took place Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in St. John's Episcopal church.

The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Paul S. Atkins, in the presence of a large body of relatives and friends.

Local Couple Weds Wednesday: Ralph D. Streivig, formerly department head at the G. W. Weaver and Son department store, now conducting a department store in New Bloomburg, was married Wednesday to Miss Elsie M. Tawney, Gettysburg, in the Lutheran parsonage in Bloomburg, by an uncle of the bride, Rev. Norman S. Wolf, D. D.

Local Girl Weds In Westminster: A pretty wedding was solemnized at noon Monday at Westminster, Maryland, when Miss Pauline E. McClellan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. McClellan, of Gettysburg Route 1, became the wife of Burdette F. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fabian Smith, of McSherrystown.

They were married by the Rev. John N. Garner, pastor of St. Paul's Reformed church.

Women Attend Catholic Meet: "The Challenge of Our Citizenship," the subject of an address by the Rev. Father J. Burke, general secretary of the National Catholic welfare conference, before 200 women attending the third semi-annual conference of the Harrisburg diocesan council of Catholic women at the Yorktown Hotel, York, Wednesday evening, impressed almost a score of Adams county women in attendance.

Mrs. Clement Linde, of New Oxford, was elected to the board of directors.

Gettysburg women in attendance on Wednesday were: Mrs. Wilbur Stalmsmith, Mrs. Nicholas Redding, Miss Bessie Breighner, Miss Dora Frommeyer, Miss Mary Ramer, Miss Carrie Codori, Mrs. Edgar Paul Hamilton, Mrs. Charles E. Swisher, Mrs. Edward J. Farrell, Miss Rhoda Breighner, Mrs. Margaret Maguire, Miss Anna McSherry and Mrs. Richard Gott.

Large Crowd Views Colorful Parade of Odd Fellows Commemorating 80th Anniversary of Gettysburg: Culminating in an initiatory ceremony at the Hotel Gettysburg theatre, Friday evening, Gettysburg Lodge, 124, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, brought to a close the celebration of its founding eighty years ago.

The meeting at the theatre, attended by 1,100 Odd Fellows from Adams and neighboring counties, followed a large street parade, in which uniformed members of Cantons in York and Harrisburg were the center of attraction in their resplendent plumed hats, shiny swords, and sheaths.

The fifty candidates, who had previously received their initiatory degrees, marched behind the drum corps of the Albert J. Lentz post, each member nattily attired in the uniform of a sailor.

The degree team of Gettysburg Lodge, of which Oscar A. Lupp is the leader, was next in line, after which came between 350 and 400 members of the Gettysburg lodge.

At the theatre I. L. Taylor was master of ceremonies and the Rev. Earl J. Bowman gave the invocation. Addresses were made by Rev. J. Harold Mumper of Westville, New Jersey, Frank Shannon of Pittsburgh, Grand Master William T. Fowden of Chester, Grand Chaplain Simon Sipple of Allentown, H. M. Hartman of Hagerstown and Rev. L. B. Hafer, of Gettysburg.

Music was furnished by a male quartet of members of Gettysburg Lodge. On the quartet were I. L. Taylor, R. E. Zinn, A. Z. Rogers and Ralph Shader.

COAST POLICE SEEK CAR, MEN FOR LOST BOY

San Francisco, Nov. 8 (AP)—San Francisco police alerted all California points early today to be on the lookout for two men who may have missing Dickie Tum Suden, 3, with them in a late model sedan.

Inspector Joseph Donegan broadcast the alarm after Mrs. Mildred Beer reported a three- or four-year-old boy resembling the Tum Seden child had come to her door just before midnight, and was seized some time later by two men who forced their way into her home and knocked her down.

She told Donegan she heard a noise at her door and found the blue-suited youngster outside alone. She took him inside, fed him some milk and about an hour afterward called the police.

Three radio squad cars were dispatched immediately to Mrs. Beer's home in a new, suburban residential district in southwest San Francisco.

Flee With Boy
Five minutes after Donegan had received the woman's call he phoned her back to see if the police cars had arrived. During that interval Mrs. Beer said two men came to the door, claimed they were policemen and pushed their way inside. One struck her on the forehead, knocked her down and held her while the other picked up the boy and carried him to a car parked outside. His companion joined him and the pair raced away with the lad.

The driver of one of the squad cars reported a few moments later that on his way to the Beer home he had seen two bareheaded men in a late model Hudson or Studebaker sedan pull off a park district side road onto the Skyline boulevard.

Lost November 1
Mrs. Beer described the man who struck her as 35 years old, five feet nine inches tall, weighing approximately 165 pounds and wearing a tweed sport coat. The second, she said, was about the same age and weight and about two inches shorter.

A report was flashed to the San Mateo county sheriff's office and a deputy drove up the Skyline boulevard to San Francisco but did not spot the hunted car.

The Tum Suden boy, scion of a wealthy San Francisco bay area mining family, has been missing since November 1 when he disappeared from the yard of his parents' home at Goodyear Park, a mining community in the high Sierras. An intensive search in that mountainous country was abandoned Tuesday night after no trace of the boy had been found.

Talon Tool And Die Makers On Strike

Erie, Pa., Nov. 8 (AP)—A strike of 25 tool and die makers, members of the International Association of Machinists, partially disrupted operations last night at the Erie plant of Talon, Inc., makers of zip-pers.

Some employees who went out for a 1 o'clock luncheon found picket lines when they returned and did not reenter the plant; but a majority of the 150 on the night shift continued to work the turn out.

The walkout came almost immediately after a National Labor Relations Board announcement at Pittsburgh that the tool and die makers had voted 23 to 2 in favor of a strike in a dispute involving wages and other issues.

Gus Edwards Dies; Songwriter, Actor

Hollywood, Nov. 8 (AP)—Gus Edwards, beloved tinpan alley tunesmith and discoverer of countless stars of the stage and screen, is dead.

The 66-year-old songwriter, actor and producer died in his apartment last night after a long illness.

Writer of such songs as "School Days," "By the Light of the Silvery Moon," "In My Merry Oldsmobile," and "Sunbonnet Sue," Edwards discovered and helped along such outstanding performers as Eddie Cantor, George Jessel, Lila Lee, Mae Murray, Lillian Lorraine, Larry Adler, Eleanor Powell, Mervyn Leroy, Bert Wheeler, Earl Carroll, Helen Menken, Hildegard, Johnny Hines, Groucho Marx, the Duncan sisters, Ray Bolger and Eddie Buzzell.

In the heyday of vaudeville, Gus Edwards was a headliner on the Orpheum and Keith circuits.

Hollywood

By Bob Thomas

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 8 (AP)—There wasn't much to talk about to Fred Astaire. It had been well publicized that he was tired and was going to retire, perhaps returning later to produce pictures. So mostly I just watched while he performed his last dance routine in motion pictures.

He was dressed as most people remember him—the dapper top hat, striped trousers and tails, spats and cane. His sly grin occasionally crept over his face, but he was grim and intent, as he always is when thinking out a routine. He tapped the floor nervously while waiting for the camera to get ready.

"People can't seem to believe I'm really retiring," he told me. "They think I must be kidding." I asked if he would ever dance for his own pleasure during his retirement.

"Naw," he said. "The only time I really feel like dancing is when I hear some really hot swing music." The camera was ready and he began his "Putting on the Ritz" number for "Blue Skies." It was a hot, fast routine with all the charm and grace and imagination that made him the best known dancer of the century.

The number was a trick shot involving mirrors and split sets and it. At 5:30 Astaire, sweating and it. At 5:30 Astaire, sweating and weary, walked back to his dressing room for the last time. He said to me: "Forty-one years of this. Do you wonder that I'm quitting?"

5 VETERANS, GIRL, KILLED

Philadelphia, Nov. 8 (AP)—Five veterans of overseas service and a 19-year-old girl were fatally injured today when the automobile in which they were riding rammied a fog-shrouded tree in Mt. Airy suburb.

Victims were: William R. Morrison, 21, of Philadelphia, discharged two weeks ago from the army.

Cpl. Owen M. McDonnell, 21, of Philadelphia, of the Air Transport Command, who was home on leave while waiting his discharge.

Elmer R. Fickenaue, 21, of Philadelphia, veteran of the battle of the bulge who was discharged last Friday from the army and who planned to return to Cornell university next week.

George P. Finch, Jr., 20, of Philadelphia, former marine who served more than two years aboard the second carrier Wasp and who was discharged last September 28.

Pfc. Wayne Whipple, 21, of Minneapolis, Minn., who was visiting Fickenaue while awaiting a discharge.

Helen Vanderherchen, of Philadelphia, who was catapelled from the automobile and died later in the Chestnut Hill hospital.

Robert J. Delaney, 50, of Glenview, discovered the accident while driving home. He said all five of the youths were trapped in the wrecked automobile and that the girl was lying about 40 feet away.

SUPERMEN

Santa Monica, Calif., Nov. 8 (AP)—Surveying six grave stones overturned by vandals, J. C. Browder, superintendent of the municipal Woodlawn cemetery, said "this must have been a contest to see who could upset the largest stone." The smallest weighed 600 pounds, the largest 3,000.

SOLIDARITY OF BIG THREE IS KEY TO PEACE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

A fellow commuter this morning turned from the headlines in his newspaper and asked me in pre-dawn, sepulchral tones:

"Well, when will the next war come—in about five years?"

I wasn't feeling so good myself, because the train was late, but that pessimistic query put me on the alert. One doesn't (or at least shouldn't) talk about world wars in these atomic-bomb days without pausing to think. Anyway, my reply was that while there are very real dangers to be overcome, there is no sound reason why these shouldn't be met successfully. I believe that, too.

Certainly there is cause for anxiety, but there's nothing to cause surprise. The international difficulties are mild compared with what might have developed from such a cataclysm as that through which our poor old globe has just passed. Not only is the world physically torn in many places, but its whole politico-economic structure is undergoing vast change.

Urges Frankness

Great powers—Germany, Italy, Japan—have disappeared and there is inevitable realignment of spheres of influence which are causing heart-burnings. British Foreign Secretary Bevin, speaking in the House of Commons yesterday, declared that the great difficulty in achieving international cooperation rests in "whether or not you can entirely obliterate what are called spheres of influence and power politics." He added:

"Sometimes in these negotiations—I make the confession—power politics seems to me to be naked and unashamed."

The quickest way to overcome this evil is the employment of frankness among nations, and Bevin sounded this note when he appealed to the great powers to "really put the cards on the table face upwards." While naming no names, the foreign minister hinted that Britain was suspicious of Russia's territorial demands. He put it this way:

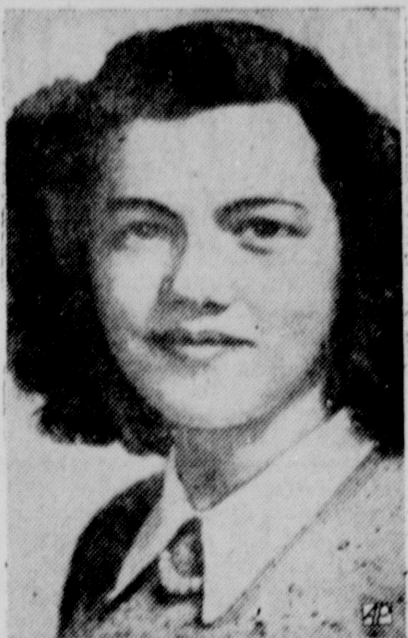

"You cannot help being a little bit suspicious if a great power wants to go right across the throat of the British Commonwealth."

Solid Big Three

That's putting the cards on the table face upwards. And we've had quite a lot of cards faced so far this week. Russian Foreign Minister Molotov started it in his Moscow address Tuesday, when he condemned the tendency towards formation of a bloc of western European powers, and asked that all the secrets in connection with the manufacture of the atomic bomb be placed at Russia's disposal.

Former Prime Minister Winston Churchill also turned up some cards

TRUMAN ORDERS COMPLETE AID

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—The White House said today that President Truman has ordered that the joint congressional committee investigating Pearl Harbor must be supplied with any information it desires.

His memorandum, to federal department and agency heads, as well as to the joint chiefs of staff, authorizes all employees under them to give the committee "any information of which they may have knowledge."

The White House said the President sent out the memorandum last night.

In it he also requested the department heads to authorize employees, even if they aren't questioned by the committee, to "come forward voluntarily" and report any information which they may believe has not been disclosed previously to the congressional investigators.

"This directive," the President said, "is applicable to all persons in your departments or agencies whether they are in the armed services or not and whether or not they are called to testify before the joint committee."

The President's action came at a time when Republicans and Democrats on the investigating committee were contending that political considerations are imperiling the value of the whole inquiry.

Churchill was repeating his theme song of anglo-american solidarity. It's important to note that while there was blunt talk in Commons, especially regarding Russia, there also were kindly words for the Soviet, and the need of collaboration among the powers was emphasized. Just as Molotov had emphasized it Tuesday. The road to peace—admittedly a dangerous road—lies in this mutual recognition that solidarity of the Big Three is vital.

SAYS TOP MEN SHOULD SIT IN

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur has expressed his belief that "the professional heads" of the armed services should sit in as ex-officio members of the President's cabinet.

The general's suggestion is included in a transcript taken by the Joint Chiefs of Staff Special Committee. This group interviewed top army and navy leaders on a proposal to set up a single department of national defense.

The transcript, made public by the Senate Military Committee which is considering army-navy merger plans, quoted MacArthur as saying at Leyte in the Philippines Dec. 3, 1944:

"I believe that the professional heads of the services should be ex-officio members of the cabinet. They should be present at all cabinet meetings without power of voting, but permitted to express their opinion, and above all else, to hear the cabinet as they discuss not only external affairs of the United States but internal problems."

Discussing MacArthur's suggestion with a reporter today, Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.), acting chairman of the military committee said, "I disagree heartily with that plan. I think our forefathers were pretty wise. We have got to continue civilian control of the military agencies."

Five of the youths who fled yesterday were Philadelphia. The sixth is from Westport, Pa. School officials gave no details of how the youths may have escaped.

Military Ballots To Determine Race

Pittsburgh, Nov. 8 (AP)—12,000 to 14,000 military ballots, to be counted November 16, will decide whether Judge Joseph A. Richardson or Judge Harry M. Montgomery shall occupy a seat in Common Pleas court.

Richardson, Republican, held a lead of 2,414 over Democrat Montgomery on the face of unofficial returns from 1,019 of Allegheny county's 1,027 election districts.

Generally conceded though not mathematically in the bag were elections of Congressman Samuel A. Weiss, Democrat, and District Attorney Russell H. Adams, Republican, to two of the places on Common Pleas court.

Weiss was credited with 218,413 votes, Adams with 211,888.

Only three judges were to be elected. One of the persons in the top group of four must fall by the wayside with the military ballot count and the official canvass.

Seek Youths Who Fled Reform School

Media, Pa., Nov. 8 (AP)—Eastern Pennsylvania police officials today sought six youths, between the ages of 14 and 17, who fled the Glen Mills reform school near here last night.

Only a week ago, nine 14-year-old boys escaped the institution. Seven were caught within 24 hours. Two are still missing, says School Superintendent Major H. B. Hickman.

School officials gave no details of how the youths may have escaped.

ABILITY TO WIN IS QUESTIONED

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Vice Admiral Charles M. Cooke, Jr., said today that if the U. S. army and navy had been operating under a single department they might not have won the war.

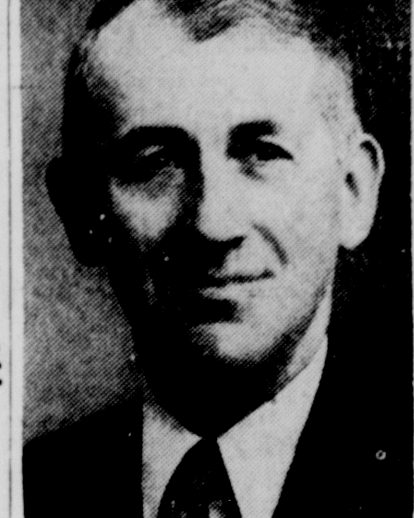

The deputy chief of naval operations told the Senate Military committee in prepared testimony:

"It is my belief that not only would the supervision of the war have been less efficient, but taking into consideration the probability of a seriously hampered growth of the navy during the past 20 years, we are confronted with the very real possibility that the victory would have been delayed for several years, or that we would not have won the war at all."

Cooke said that "during this greatest and most complex war in all history, the United States has been singularly blessed by the correctness of the strategic decisions reached and actions taken in Washington."

"The decision of no one of the U. S. chiefs of staff has prevailed in all cases, but the chief of staff dealing with a matter primarily in his particular field, has, I believe, usually been right."

He declared the service integration plan advocated by the War Department "would be more than revolutionary, it would be almost cataclysmic" in its effect on the navy.

Gov. Martin Proclaims Thanksgiving Holiday

Harrisburg, Nov. 8 (AP)—Thankfulness "as never before" should be in the hearts of Pennsylvanians in the traditional observance of Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 22, Gov. Martin said today in his formal proclamation of the holiday.

"By divine favor, we have been granted victories over those who plotted in darkness to destroy all that we hold sacred," Martin stated.

S. chiefs of staff has prevailed in all cases, but the chief of staff dealing with a matter primarily in his particular field, has, I believe, usually been right."

He declared the service integration plan advocated by the War Department "would be more than revolutionary, it would be almost cataclysmic" in its effect on the navy.

STEEL DEMANDS PRICE INCREASE WITH PAY RAISE

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—President Truman's Labor-Management Conference tolled through a bulging agenda today, but United States Steel corporation held the capital's attention with a sharp rebuff to Mr. Truman's wage-price policy.

Through its president, Benjamin F. Fairless, the corporation notified Secretary of Labor Schwelienbach it would not resume wage talks with CIO Steel Workers until it had the government's answer on steel price increases.

Fairless dashed cold water, also, on Mr. Truman's proposal that employers grant wage increases now, then wait six months before seeking a price ceiling adjustment from OPA if profits dwindled too sharply.

Fairless said if wages are boosted, additional steel price increases—beyond those already pending—will be needed and the corporation, he added, will insist on assurances from OPA that they would be granted "simultaneously" with any wage hike.

Prepares Reply

Philip Murray, president of the CIO and of the United Steel Workers, had accepted Schwelienbach's proposal that collective bargaining be resumed—in what Murray said was the spirit of Mr. Truman's wage-price speech last Tuesday—under a special conciliator.

The Labor Secretary's office said Schwelienbach had received both Fairless's and Murray's letters, was "considering" them, and might issue a statement today. The letters were made public.

This new road-block in the administration's drive for labor peace loomed just as a minor but irritating snaw was cleared away—the 30-hour tie-up of all bus and streetcar service in Washington.

Delegates could again ride the trolleys to the Labor-Management Conference, if they chose, under a 14-day truce arranged between striking AFL Traction Workers and the Capital Transit Company. Full service was scheduled today while wage demands are negotiated.

On Capitol Hill, House members pursued these two legislative approaches to industrial peace:

Labor Chiefs Fuss

The rules committee prepared to act on anti-strike legislation already approved by the military committee. The bill would deny collective bargaining rights to union violating no-strike clauses, and make offending unions liable for civil damages.

An expenditures subcommittee began planning a compromise version of the so-called Full Employment Bill.

But the 36 Management-Labor delegates, in corridor conversations, found a ripe topic in last night's clash between CIO Chief Murray and President Ira Mosher of the National Association of Manufacturers. The issue was whether to bring wage discussions onto the conference floor.

Murray succeeded in getting a wage resolution before the powerful executive committee, the first step. But Mosher issued a public statement last night declaring his flat opposition.

"Doctor Wanted" In Bobtown, Pa.

Bobtown, Pa., Nov. 8 (AP)—There is an urgent "doctor wanted" sign out in this little Greene county bining community.

The town's 2,000 residents have been without medical services since ill health forced Dr. S. P. Boyer to retire and go to Florida 10 days ago.

Inducements offered by the Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation, which operates the Shannopin mine here, include rental of a "modern six-room house with nearby office," and "an average income of $5,200 a year."

This income, the company says, can be augmented by building up a practice in nearby farming areas and communities.

Thus far, there have been no takers.

"We have advertised in Pittsburgh and in the coal districts of Uniontown and Greensburg," a company official said. "The only answers we have had are from doctors who had previously retired and would like to go back into practice. We feel the job requires a young man."

Wheeler Criticizes Implement Measure

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) today criticized legislation to make the United States a working partner in the United Nations organization. He said it would let the Security Council "send our boys into war."

Wheeler is the only Senator so far who has taken open exception to the implementing legislation approved by the Foreign Relations Committee yesterday without a dissenting vote.

Chairman Connally (D., Texas) said he foresaw its approval by the Senate with little difficulty. The measure then will go to the House.

Senator George of Georgia, ranking Democrat on the committee, told reporters he knew of no opposition inside or outside the Foreign Relations group.

Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.), who helped write the United Nations charter, said he considered the bill in "very satisfactory preliminary form."

WITNESS TELLS HOW HUNDREDS MADE HOMELESS

By DEAN SCHEOLER

Manila, Nov. 8 (AP)—The grim story of a Japanese reign of terror in Batangas province where 25,000 men, women and children were brutally mistreated or murdered in seven months began to unfold today before the military commission hearing war crimes charges against Lt. Gen. Tetsu Uki Yamashita.

Survivors have said that the death toll of civilians was far greater in Batangas than it was in Manila. Populations of entire villages, these survivors have reported, were held at bay at the point of Japanese guns while the invaders burned down all their homes.

The prosecution's first Batangas witness was Lt. James P. Healey, Jr., of San Francisco, a war crimes investigation officer, who said he learned that some 6,000 Japanese soldiers ran rampant over the province from October 9, 1944, to May 1 of this year, committing acts of brutality on the grounds their victims were guerrillas.

Next witness was a Filipino, Pamplio Umali, from the province, who related that he was tied up with "about 700 men and I don't know the number of women but there were many," and "led off to a well about 300 feet wide and 60 feet deep."

One by one they were made to jump into the well, Umali said.

"When my time came, about 200 already had jumped and after I jumped at least another 100 followed me."

Before Japanese soldiers covered the well with native bamboo sheets, Umali said, they threw in some rocks, "dropped a sewing machine," and fired in many shots.

Sometime after midnight, the witness continued, some Filipino women sneaked to the well and lowered ropes up which six men escaped. Many of the women liberators were captured and never seen again.

JAVA ATTACKS ARE BLOCKED

Batavia, Nov. 8 (AP)—A band of 1,000 Indonesians was beaten off by British Indian troops and tanks today near Batavia as tension mounted throughout Java.

Almost simultaneously Dutch forces threw back another attack on the Tjililitan airfield on the southeast outskirts of the capital, scattering a band of 300 Nationalists after a pitched battle which lasted nearly an hour.

The British colonel whose troops beat back the first attack, aimed at a camp for released Allied internees and war prisoners, said that for the first time the Indonesians appeared to be fighting under organized leadership.

He said that when the fighting ceased near the camp the situation was under control, but that the attackers might "come back again after lunch."

The Indonesians left 14 dead in the battle at the internee camp. Several Indonesians and two Punjab troopers were wounded. At the Tjililitan airfield, one was captured, and two Dutch soldiers were wounded.

November 16, 1941, but that city and Blair county authorities called the death a suicide and refused to conduct a coroner's inquest.

She was arrested, she said, after she put up signs in protest. This, she declared, deprived her of her constitutional right of freedom of the press.

JAPS FAIL IN PLOT TO KILL HOME MINISTER

Tokyo, Nov. 8 (AP)—Two vagrant former Kamikaze pilots who waited with drawn knives in the darkened halls of the home ministry attempted vainly last night to assassinate Home Minister Kenjiro Horikiri.

The 61-year-old minister, attacked as he returned from addressing a meeting of police chiefs on the increase of crime and "chactic" conditions in Japan, was not injured. The assailants were taken in custody.

At his desk as usual today, Horikiri dismissed the attempt against his life as "unimportant," except as it emphasized the increased "restlessness" among the people.

"The social situation, as you know, is deteriorating," he told the Associated Press in a telephone interview. The attack, he added, increased his personal intention to "work harder for the maintenance of public order."

Horikiri said he possibly would visit the Ueno Park relief station, where the two former pilots have been living with hundreds of other vagrants, many of whom are forced to sleep in the open. The attack, he said, was in protest against conditions at the station.

Woman Killed When Train Strikes Auto

Sharon, Pa., Nov. 8 (AP)—A Pennsylvania railroad passenger train crashed into an automobile at a crossing last night, killing Mrs. Mary Wasiko Bonaquist, 24, and critically injuring her husband, James, who was discharged from the Marine corps only two weeks ago.

The woman's body was found alongside the tracks 100 feet from the crossing and the man was carried 800 feet in the wrecked car. He was taken to Buhl hospital with a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Sharon police said Bonaquist stopped at the crossing, waited for a freight train to pass, then pulled onto the tracks in front of the passenger train which came from the opposite direction.

Auto Financing Views Are Sought

Harrisburg, Nov. 8 (AP)—Representatives of three major installment-financing companies and automobile dealers were invited to meet today with a legislature committee investigating practices of finance firms.

Rep. Franklin H. Lichtenwalter, chairman, said the Commercial Credit company, General Motors Acceptance corporation and Commercial Investment Trust, handle more than half of the car-financing business in Pennsylvania. Their views will be considered with those of others in the business, already interviewed in the committee's efforts to remedy practices which Lichtenwalter said sometimes were questionable.

The dealers' relationships to financing will be brought out through spokesmen for the Pennsylvania Automotive association, he added.

Eighteen per cent of home accident fatalities were children under five years of age during 1944.

DOCTORS HEAR

(Continued from Page 1) cent, the money taken out of the pay envelopes. Services as outlined in the bill cannot be provided for less than 17 per cent, Dr. Palmer declared, and he asserted that the balance would have to be made up out of the United States treasury.

Up To People

"The people must decide what they want, whether they want to decide who is to take care of them or whether they want the government to decide, and they must decide whether they want to pay for the service themselves or give it to the government to pay."

Dr. Palmer also explained other provisions of the Wagner-Murray-Dingle bill providing, among other things, for hospital construction, public health centers, maternal and child health care and increased allocation for care of crippled children, as well as bills in Congress with similar aims.

"There is not much likelihood that the Wagner-Murray-Dingle bill will be passed at this session of Congress, but it remains a potential threat," he concluded.

Functions of the Medical Service Association of Pennsylvania were explained by John M. Kissel, its comptroller, Harrisburg.

Service Explained

"The Medical Service Association is a non-profit organization, similar to the hospitalization plan," he said. "Participation is voluntary. It provides surgery and obstetric care in the hospital, and is being expanded to provide complete medical care while in the hospital."

All doctors are eligible, he said, but participation is not compulsory. Premiums are paid at rates applying to the individual, to husband and wife, and to the family. In the lower income brackets, service payments are met; in the high brackets, credits are given.

The speaker described medical care plans in operation in several other states, and declared that the Michigan plan is the most successful, and the answer to the Wagner-Murray-Dingle bill.

Dr. C. H. Johnson presided, in the absence of Dr. William B. Flickinger, York Springs.

pire, Chinese and Soviet units may be added to the occupation armies within a reasonable time and that other powers will be given a larger share than now in the overall policy making. But the Japanese especially hope that the final word will remain with the United States.

Dread Red Control

The Japanese dread any increase in Russia's share of the control of their fate. The cabinet ministers decline to discuss Russia for publication, but talks with Japanese in high places make their fears manifest. The Japanese government, despite the return of men who spent the years of militarist domination in eclipse because of their liberalism, contains many men of conservative social and economic views. These are known to fear the danger of Communization if Russian influence becomes strong.

Stories of Russian excesses in Northern Korea have wide currency among Japanese leaders, who profess to fear similar developments if there should be a territorial division of Japan among the Allies after the others join the Americans, and if the Russians for instance should be allotted the northern island of Hokkaido, which is in American hands.

WORKER IS KILLED Erie, Pa., Nov. 8 (AP)—Injuries suffered in an October 31 industrial accident caused the death of Porter M. Jackson, 67, yesterday in a hospital. He was struck on the head by a crane at the Bucyrus Erie company, where he worked.

UNION REJECTS PAY COMPROMISE

(By The Associated Press)

The fight by CIO-United Automobile Workers to obtain 30 per cent wage increases for the nation's auto workers appeared headed for a showdown today as the last group of employees in motor's "big three" voted in favor of a work stoppage to support the union's demands.

The union yesterday flatly rejected a compromise wage adjustment program offered by General Motors corporation at the renewal of negotiations in Detroit. Earlier GM had formally turned down as "excessive" the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage rate hike in the motor industry.

Meanwhile, early returns from yesterday's National Labor Relations board election among 80,000 Ford company workers disclosed a heavy majority approved a work stoppage to support the union's wage proposal. Previously employees at General Motors and Chrysler corporation sanctioned the possible strike action.

The newest flareup in the motor industry labor fight came as the United States Steel corporation declined Secretary of Labor Schweikert's proposal to reopen wage negotiations with CIO-steelworkers under a special conciliator.

CIO President Philip Murray earlier had accepted the labor secretary's suggestion that the collective bargaining conference be resumed "in the spirit" of President Truman's recent wage-price speech.

The union had asked a $2 a day wage increase. A strike vote among some 500,000 steel company employees is scheduled November 28.

BOOK WEEK

To be Celebrated Nov. 11-17

Twenty-four national organizations are cooperating with the Children's Book Council to make this year's Children's Book Week, November 11-17, a celebration in every community in the country, according to a pamphlet issued by the Council. Twenty-five thousand requests for Book Week display material were answered last year by the Council, which is planning to supply an even greater number of communities this year with book marks, posters, and other material at a nominal cost. A free manual of suggestions concerning Book Week will be sent on request of Book Week Headquarters at 62 W. 45th St., N. Y. C. 19.

Although Book Week material from the headquarters has proved a great help in previous years, the main stimulus comes from each community uniting all forces to bring books to the attention of the children. Exhibits of books that can be freely held and examined, book talks by authors that make the books "come alive," plays and projects built around book themes that the children themselves participate in, all help the child realize what books can mean in his life. In small and large communities all over the country librarians and teachers have cooperated with civic leaders and mothers to celebrate Book Week.

Popular for many years in this country, Book Week is fast becoming an international celebration. Last year many countries, including Australia, New Zealand, Brazil, Russia, and England held Book Week exhibits despite wartime handicaps. This year these countries and many more will have extensive Book Week displays and projects.

The national organizations sponsoring Book Week are: Association of Children's Book Editors, American Booksellers Association, Book Publishers Bureau, A.L.A. Division of Libraries for Children and Young People, Catholic Library Association, Association of Junior Leagues of America, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, National Education Association, Child Study Association of America, Play Schools Association, Boys' Clubs of America, Inc., Boy Scouts of America, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, 4-H Clubs, U. S. Office of Education, Bureau of Intercultural Education, Jewish Education Committee, Pan American Union, National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, National Association of Negro Business and Professional Women, Woman's Council for Post-War Europe, East and West Association, National Conference of Christians and Jews.

These organizations are solidly behind the Children's Book Council slogan of "more books in the hands of more children." For surveys show that there are millions of children in this country who have never seen anything but their school text books. Because they feel this situation to be urgent they are enlarging their Book Week plans to include national publicity as well as local support of the celebration in each community. All national activities are channeled through Book Week Headquarters which is enlarging its staff to take care of the expanded program.

YANK-RUSSIAN TALKS ON JAPS, TURKEY FADING

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Negotiations between Moscow and Washington over a variety of problems ranging from Japan to Turkey appeared today to be farther from success than officials here had hoped.

Here is the situation:

1. Foreign Commissar Molotov has replied to an American proposal for an Allied control agency in Tokyo which would be subordinate to the far eastern advisory commission in Washington. There are strong indications that Molotov turned down this proposal and that Secretary of State Byrnes is not inclined to compromise the issue further.

2. The United States has laid a four-point program for revising control of the Dardanelles before the Turkish government. This would give Russia some advantages in the use of the straits which she does not now have. But it falls far short of Russia's reported desire for military bases on the vital link between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean.

Treaty Expires

3. A Russian-Turkish treaty of nonaggression and friendship which had run for many years expired yesterday following Soviet denunciation. Diplomatic officials say they fear that Russia may make a few psychological passes at Turkey in order to gain the right to set up Dardanelles bases on Turkish soil and also to win over certain territories in northeastern Turkey which the Russians have claimed.

4. The problem of the atomic bomb and peacetime uses of atomic energy becomes more acute between the two countries, in the opinion of diplomatic authorities, as the time approaches for conferences among President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee of Britain and Mackenzie King of Canada. These talks will open Sunday aboard the presidential yacht Potomac.

Byrnes declined at a news conference to comment on Molotov's speech in Moscow Tuesday saying that Russia would have atomic energy and that the secret of the bomb could not be kept. But the subject evidently was very much on Byrnes' mind because he went directly from the news conference to the White House to discuss with Mr. Truman preparations for the week-end talks.

LOWER POINTS FOR DISCHARGE

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—The army has decided to release this month enlisted men with 50 or more discharge points who are on furlough and enlisted men on temporary duty in the United States.

Most of the men affected, the War Department explained, were in units from Europe whose scheduled redeployment to the Pacific was cancelled after Japan surrendered. It did not estimate the number affected.

The present general discharge score is 60 points.

The army also has laid down exemptions from overseas duty which will affect about 125,000 officers and enlisted men.

Except for graduates of the military intelligence language school, regular army enlisted men and volunteers for foreign duty, no enlisted man with 21 months or more honorable service since September 16, 1940, will be assigned overseas for permanent duty.

Officers with 33 month or more honorable service, or with 30 months if medical department officers, are exempt unless they are reserve officers who choose to remain on active duty, regular army officers, scarce specialists or are graduates of the military intelligence school with fewer than 39 months' service and not eligible for discharge.

Army nurses with 12 points or 30 years of age are exempt and 30 WAC officers are being sent across on permanent assignment.

Lemon oil is found in the rind of lemon.

Political Considerations Are Imperiling Probe Of Pearl Harbor Disaster

GOP DEMANDS PRIVATE LOOK IN FOR PAPERS

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Republicans and Democrats on the Pearl Harbor investigating committee contended today that political considerations are imperiling the value of the whole inquiry.

"They have given it such a political turn," Senator George (D-Ga.) said of the Republicans, "that I doubt the committee can accomplish very much."

Senator Brewster (R-Me), terming the Democrats' stand "very unfortunate," added: "If there ever was a committee that should be free of partisanship, it is here."

Brewster's contention was that otherwise the public would lack confidence in the ultimate findings.

George and Brewster were interviewed separately prior to a closed door session of the committee (10:30 a. m. EST).

There are five senators and five representatives on the committee, assigned the job of getting out the whole story on the Japanese success at Pearl Harbor in 1941.

The inter-party wrangling—"this division," Brewster called it—has been centered on a thus far unsuccessful demand by Republicans that members be allowed to dig for facts individually as well as in group style.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) has said he never would vote to give Republicans authority to go as individuals into files of the late President Roosevelt.

Lucas told a group of reporters that the investigation "was conceived in Republican politics, born in Republican politics and will die in Republican politics."

Used By Truman

Declining to elaborate, he added: "A lot of these boys are going to be caught out on a limb when all the evidence is in."

Lucas said Republicans on the committee want to be "private snoopers" rather than impartial investigators.

Brewster carried on his campaign with the slogan: "What's good enough for Truman is good enough for me."

This was a reference to procedures of the Senate war investigating committee when it was under the chairmanship of the then Senator Truman. It allowed individual investigations and, said Brewster, reached unanimous agreements "as a result of this freedom that was always accorded by the chairman."

East Berlin

East Berlin—Charles C. Hoffman, U. S. Maritime Service, who had been in Czechoslovakia, has been visiting his wife and daughter, Becky, York, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Hoffman.

Glenn C. Cashman, also of that service branch, spent a few days here with his wife and son Bobby before leaving for Malta, Mont., to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Leib, formerly of R. 3.

Newell E. Coxon, manager of the Penwood Heel company, who recently observed his birthday, was tendered a party by employees during the past week at the Pine Tree inn, near York. Employees present were: Mrs. Mabel Pifer, Mrs. June Rahe Oberlander, Misses Millie Leas, Beatrice and Dorothy Yohe, Mrs. Ada Stambaugh Glatfelter, Mrs. Erma Menges Smyers, Mrs. Kathryn Butt Eisenhart, Miss Helena Gulden, Wilmer Fidler, Mervin E. Mrs. Romayne Hoffman Zeigler, Miss May E. Jacobs, Mrs. Carrie Messinger, Mrs. Dae O. Miller, Miss Grace Gulden, Mrs. Verna Goehner, Mrs. Bertha Altland, Mrs. Beulah Fissel, and Dean Thoman, with out-of-town guests being William Coxon, Sr., Philadelphia, father of the guest of honor, and Richard Meek, Harrisburg.

Roy H. Mummert and nephews, Roy and Kenneth Messinger, and the Rev. Melvin Jacobs, have returned from a recent fishing trip to Bowers Beach, Del., and report a successful catch.

Girl Scout Week was observed by the local troop who exhibited in the window of a local store a collection of handicraft articles made by members, along with the certificate they received this year for their part in the tin salvage drive.

Reen guests at the home of the George L. Shetter family were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Webb, Mrs. Charles Kohl and daughters, Christine and Rita, all of near Baltimore.

Jean, eldest daughter of Seaman and Mrs. Eugene Tanner, sustained minor injuries to her head and knee when she was knocked down by a bicycle operated by a local boy while crossing the street near the Square.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis W. Deatrick have received word her nephew,

Richard D. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther D. Miller, Harrisburg, has been discharged from the Army Air Corps after several years' service, during which time he was a prisoner of the Nazis for a year. He returned to the States this summer and was then stationed in Texas. His father, a disabled veteran of World War I, is a former resident of this section.

Roxie daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Messinger, is able to be about after several days' illness that confined her to bed.

Frances Lee Elgin, 12-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Elgin, is suffering with a fractured left wrist sustained when she fell while roller skating at a Hanover rink lately.

John R. Wisler, recently discharged from the army after nearly three years' service, is assisting his father, S. David Wisler, R. 3, with farming for the present.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hollinger and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Spangler were recent visitors to Hanover where Jonas Hollinger, formerly of R. 1, is slowly convalescing after an attack of typhoid which has confined him for more than a month.

Peter R. Gross, Baltimore, was a visitor to this section during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Parren Winand,

Atterbury Personnel Thanks Red Cross

The Adams county chapter of the American Red Cross today received the thanks and appreciation of the military personnel at Camp Atterbury, Ind., for a shipment of helmets, mufflers and sweaters.

"They will be distributed to the servicemen who will be working outdoors this winter, and exposed to the extreme cold," said a letter received by Miss McMillan, executive secretary, from Fred E. Rigby, field director at Camp Atterbury.

The shipment contained two helmets, four mufflers and 51 army V-neck sleeveless sweaters, all of which arrived in good order.

R. 2, have received word that their son, Carl, is stationed in Japan.

Mrs. Edward Mummert has returned after a visit to Harrisburg where she was a guest of her sister, Mrs. Isaac Harbold, and family.

Peter H. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleason E. Smith, who returned to U. S. duty in the summer after about a year in Army service in England, has been honorably discharged and is spending some time with his parents. His brother Bill, who also served in England for some time, was honorably discharged about a month ago.

Three Rarer House Plants

To relieve the common drabness and sameness of ferns, geraniums, begonias and other ornamentals usually comprising the indoor garden, growers should seek out some of the larger and more spectacular plants now available for household roles. Attention is called to three genera, members of which are often seen but seldom recognized in windows of florist shops.

The first of these is correctly called Croton but occasionally known as Variegated Laurel. The proper botanical name is Codiaeum, believed to refer to the Greek word for head. It is probable that leaves of this genus were used to make the well known laurel wreaths pictured on the gods and other famous personages of Greek mythology.

There are numerous types of Crotons, with an almost endless array of shapes and leaf coloring and marking. One of the most important steps in growing this plant is to harmonize the particular leaf coloring with surrounding plants and the pot in which it is grown. Often Crotons clash with red pots. It is wiser to use the lighter pastel shades of pots. Methods of propagating this plant, or rather, ways to prevent it from growing tall and scraggly, are recommended in advice given below for treatment of another plant of similar habits.

Many persons erroneously confuse the Cordylines with palms. Interested growers should visit a florist shop or nursery and ask to be shown some of the Crotons, Cordylines and the third member of our trio—the Dracaenas. After an introduction they may easily identify the many species and varieties of each when they see them in show windows and in their neighbors' indoor collections. The Cordylines may be shifted to window boxes, porch tubs or outdoor beds over summer and then repotted and brought indoors before late summer nights grow cool.

Dracaena literally means "female dragon," a name often applied to one of the largest species which is native to the Canary Islands—the Dragon Tree. There are several species and varieties now suitable for home culture, most of which are slightly smaller than the Cordylines and including some fancy leaved sorts.

Both Cordylines and Dracaenas should be given a fibrous loam lightened by rich soil scraped from the under side of an old sod. The pots should be well drained, with bits of stone in the bottom covered with peat moss. These plants are native to regions where tropical rains are frequent and heavy, yet they should not be subjected to excess soggy soil. Safety lies on the dry rather than the too wet side of watering.

Crotons and Dracaenas display a tendency to grow too tall and naked by losing their older and lower leaves. There is no means of preventing this but the evil can be corrected by making a few cuts across a stem node to break the stalk shell and then tying a bunch of peat moss around the wound. Over this two halves of a split pot should be wired and the extra space around the moss filled in with potting soil and the mass kept moist. After vigorous roots are formed, the stem can be cut off below the new set of roots and plant repotted, thereby lowering the plant by moving the roots nearer the top.

Crotons, Cordylines and Dracaenas require considerable space among plant arrangements and are not desirable except in a room of liberal dimensions. They suffer from few diseases and are not severely bothered by insect pests.

Keep Farm Animals Comfortable

One of the innumerable rewards of farm life is the sense of satisfaction which comes on nights when winter blizzards howl and the farmer knows the dumb creatures under his care are snug and comfortable in dry, warm shelters. And likewise, not among the least of benefits resulting from this sound policy is the well established fact that such farmers are more prosperous in material measures than the care-less man who compels his livestock to spend the winter in damp and drafty buildings, subjected to the rigors of low temperatures, snow and rain.

Animals manufacture their bodily maintenance heat from feeds, chiefly from the costlier grains and grain concentrates. If they are compelled to utilize a major portion of their feed to overcome low temperatures, they will have a small portion remaining to transform into flesh-building and power-creating properties. And in the case of milk cows there will be less feed assimilated for making milk and butterfat.

But the need for animal comfort in winter does not end with proper housing and dry bedding. They should have their drinking-water warmed on extremely cold days. For this practice there are at least two practical reasons: (1) If animals are forced to drink ice-water in winter, they do not consume sufficient quantities to maintain normal health and vigor; (2) Like the evils of cold stables, ice-cold water requires waste of grain feeds to bring it up to bodily temperatures—a waste far out of proportion to the small outlay necessary in simple heating equipment, fuel and labor to provide warm drinking water.

Sheep are naturally dressed in heavier coats for winter than are cattle, horses and swine. But they, too, demand a comparable degree of housing comforts plus warm water. And because hogs are seemingly immune to the discomforts of cold weather, owners may forget that these animals respond profitably to dry, draftless shelters. Tests show definitely that hogs make faster and less costly gains in weight during cold weather when they enjoy quarters which permit them to utilize most of their heat-producing nutrients to sustain and build up their bodies instead of overcoming low temperatures.

Of course, the day when poultry was allowed to roost in trees or open sheds over winter has long since passed. Poultrymen know that winter eggs are produced only by hens housed in sanitary and comfortable buildings.

The small expense of lumber, nails and labor needed to render cold, crack-exposed stables, hog houses and poultry quarters suitable for occupation by animals and fowl is returned many times over in feed saved and production gained, whether that production is measured in beef cattle flesh, hog weight, poultry eggs or horse power.

Dryness in stables and poultry and hog houses is often gained by providing adequate ventilation in addition to stopping drafts. Animals and birds give off considerable moisture in their exhaled breath and

CAPITAL CAB DRIVERS MAY JOIN WALKOUT

(By The Associated Press)
A possible sympathy strike of Washington taxicab drivers was hinted today as a strike of 4,000 their droppings. Unless this moisture is carried away promptly by proper ventilation, excess humidity may increase discomforts even where the temperature is not low.

Repairing the winter homes for the next few weeks, a task that should not be neglected. Its accomplishment is always a badge of the good farmer.

AFL workers paralyzed the capital's bus and streetcar service for the second day.

There was no indication that the strikers would return to their jobs but federal conciliators arranged a meeting with union and company representatives in an effort to effect a settlement in the dispute over wages.

Also scheduled was a meeting of the executive board of the AFL taxicab operators to "take some stand" on the transit strike, which has tied up buses and streetcars which handled 1,500,000 fares daily. A taxicab union spokesman said "we haven't got anybody to strike against," but that the board could call a "holiday." The transit strikers are demanding a wage increase of 30 cents an hour.

Thousands Affected
Meanwhile, hundreds of thousands of residents in the District of Columbia and suburban Maryland areas serviced by streetcars and buses of the struck Capital Transit company, remained inconvenienced. Workers not owning automobile walked or hitch-hiked to work while other thousands stayed at home. Taxicabs alleviated to some extent the transportation problems of many.

New labor trouble flared in Akron O., scene of several strikes in recent months, while disputes across the country kept idle some 270,000 men and women.

The dispute in Akron was at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., where production was halted at its two main plants as CIO workers refused to pass picket lines in a dispute involving the rescheduling of 1,600 maintenance and engineering employees from a six to an eight-hour day.

News Of Special Interest To The Residents Of Emmitsburg And Vicinity

VETERANS' DAY IN EMMITSBURG; PARADE, DANCE

The Armistice Day and All Veterans' Day parade, sponsored by the Francis X. Elder post No. 121 of the American Legion, will be held at 5 o'clock this evening. The parade will form at the high school grounds at 4:30 o'clock, circle the town and end at the Legion hall where special exercises will take place.

The order of the parade will be as follows: State police marshal, color guard, car of honor to be followed by approximately 45 returned veterans from World War II, the Waynesboro band, the Red Cross float on which will ride the Emmitsburg ladies of the Red Cross surgical dressing class and Mrs. Charles Clark, Thurmont, mother of 24 children who has donated 11 pints of blood to the Red Cross; float by the Farmers' Grange No. 407, floats by merchants of Emmitsburg and Thurmont, fire companies from six surrounding towns, Legion post members from Waynesboro, Gettysburg, Boonsboro, Taneytown, Frederick, Westminster and Brunswick, bands from Littlestown, Fairfield, Taneytown and Emmitsburg, Boy Scout Drum and Bugle corps from Gettysburg, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Boy and Girl Scouts in uniform.

Dance Tonight

Immediately following the parade at the Legion hall, the Rev. Francis J. Dodd, C. M. will give the invocation. The assembly will sing "America" after which the commander of the Emmitsburg and Thurmont Legion post, Clarence G. Fraley, will introduce the guest speaker, Joseph A. Cantrell, Maryland state commander of the American Legion.

The assembly will observe a moment of silence in tribute to those who made the supreme sacrifice in

St. Joseph's Asked To Aid Europeans

An appeal has been made to St. Joseph's college directly from the Mother House of the Daughters of Charity in Paris, France, for clothing of all kinds, shoes and blankets for the suffering people of that country.

A letter describing the acute need of the liberated French has already been answered. The college girls are sending five and six packages daily of eleven pounds each which is all regulations will allow.

Persons are asked to send whatever clothing they can to the college or call Emmitsburg 147-F-3 where arrangements can be made to pick up the articles. This clothing is being sent immediately to the people who are in desperate need.

FUND DRIVE FOR COLLEGE SHOWS MUCH PROGRESS

The Rev. William F. Culhane, treasurer of Mt. St. Mary's college, announced this week that the Building Fund drive is progressing in a highly satisfactory manner. The $500,000 asked in the drive will be used for a new gymnasium, science building, infirmary and library.

The gymnasium will be the first building erected. It will provide a swimming pool of regulation size.

World War II. The Rev. L. G. Naugle will pronounce the benediction and the band will play the National Anthem. Taps will be sounded by Bugler Allan Gelwicks. The Ladies' Auxiliary will serve a supper to all veterans of the Emmitsburg vicinity.

A dance will be held in the Legion hall from 9 o'clock to midnight.

REVEAL WORK OF EMMITSBURG GIRL SCOUTS

Emmitsburg Girl Scouts observed National Girl Scout Week last week. Under the direction of their leader, Miss Sarah Edwards they decorated the window of the Village Tea room carrying out the new Girl Scout slogan, "Citizenship in Action Around the World." Miss Edwards told them at their meeting that Monday was "Citizenship Day," Tuesday, "Home-making Day," Wednesday, "Health and Safety Day," Thursday, "International Friendship Day," Friday "Arts and Crafts Day," and Saturday, "Out of Doors Day."

Towards the International Friendship goal the Girl Scouts are preparing bags for their sister Scouts in liberated countries. For out of doors work they take hikes, the last one being to Poplar Ridge.

Newly organized in January, 1945, these Scouts are in the Intermediate group. Miss Harriet Stinson is the new assistant to Miss Edwards. The former assistant was Miss Elizabeth Shoemaker.

There are two patrols, the Orioles, headed by Penninah McNair and the Chipmunks, led by Karen Kregle. The patrols meet weekly and the troop meetings are bi-monthly.

The Girl Scouts' summer project was an all-vegetable victory garden which was most successful and later in the season they helped Dow Strader husk corn.

On Halloween the troops entertained the Boy Scouts at a party. This week as part of their community work they decorated the Legion Hall for the All Veterans' Day celebration.

The troop committee members are: Mrs. James Hays, Mrs. Mary Shuff, Mrs. Bernard Boyle, Mrs. Herbert Neighbors, Mrs. John Hollinger and A. L. Leary, principal of the public high school.

The troop members are: Lois Hewitt, Hazel Keilholtz, Mary Louise Hardman, Ruth Neighbors, Doris Olinger, Janet Adams, Betty Ann Hollinger, Sue Stinson, Penninah McNair, Karen Kregle, Caroline McDonnell, Nancy Beagle, Loretta Boyle, Ann Timmerman, Dora Ohler, Lois Ohler, Betty Hardman, Helen Hardman, Beverly Miller, Doris Wastler, Sue Hays, Peggy Strader, Shirley Troxell, Patsy Tresler, Dianne Shuff, Nancy Wachter, Peggy Wachter, Adele Adelberger.

Two bowling alleys, shower and locker rooms. The first floor will contain a large basketball court with a seating capacity of 1,200, lounge, rest rooms and offices for the athletic director. The estimated cost of this building is set at $250,000.

The late Jacob Rohrbach, class of '82, bequeathed the sum of $52,500 for the library building. The entire cost of the library will be $104,000. The science building will accommodate physics and biology laboratories, equipment rooms, offices, library and work rooms on the first floor. The second floor will contain the chemistry department, consisting of laboratories, lecture room, stock rooms, balance room and office at the cost of $158,000.

The infirmary and Sisters' home will contain examination and therapy rooms, private and semi-private patients' rooms, doctors' and nurses' living quarters, storage, pharmacy, sun porch, dining room and kitchen. The second floor will provide for 10 private rooms for the Sisters, a chapel, recreational room and private porch. The cost with equipment is estimated at $76,400.

POLITICIANS SEEKING TREND FROM ELECTION

Harrisburg, Nov. 8 (AP)—Politicians looked today into the Republicans' state-wide victory and the Democrats' triumphs in two of Pennsylvania's largest cities for evidence of a trend for next year's election of a governor, U. S. senator and legislators.

M. Harvey Taylor, Republican state chairman, asserted the "tremendous majorities" polled by the Republican candidates for the state superior court "augur well for the future of the Republican party in Pennsylvania."

David L. Lawrence, state Democratic leader whose immediate personal concern was his winning of Pittsburgh's mayoralty, had urged the importance of capturing a Democratic majority on the superior court, in pre-election campaigning. He declined to comment on the state-wide results until he has had time to study the returns.

To Resign Post

Lawrence said he will quit as party chairman before he takes over as mayor in January. He will retain his post as national committeeman.

Contrasting the vote between last year's victory of the late President Roosevelt over Thomas E. Dewey, with this year's Republican majority for the superior court, the overall result was a relative gain in Republican strength in most counties, highlighted by Philadelphia's return to its normal position on the GOP side.

Beaver, Carbon and Luzerne also turned from Democratic to Republican, while Fulton and Monroe switched in the other direction. Little Elk county, Democratic last year, split its superior court vote to favor one Republican and one Democrat candidate, as did more populous Lehigh county, which favored the Republican Presidential nominee in 1944.

The Pittsburgh outcome, leaving Democrats in control of the state's second-largest city, was balanced by the Republican sweep of the so-called "row" offices in Philadelphia's city hall. However, the Democrats entered their capture of Scranton's mayoralty in the credit column.

Other Results

Republicans won 11 county judgeships, and Democrats, nine, with two Allegheny county seats still in doubt. In some cases there was no opposition at the polls.

Fourteen third-class cities elected Republican mayors, as contrasted with four—aside from Pittsburgh and Scranton, first-class, and second class-A, respectively—which chose Democrats.

The overall vote was well below last year's Presidential balloting, prompting Governor Martin to remark he regretted that "when we consider the 250,000 American boys and girls who made the supreme sacrifice that we could have the privilege of a free election, that so many people failed to exercise their right of franchise."

As against a total of 3,794,787 votes cast last year, the unofficial count, with 399 precincts still out, was 2,162,645 this year.

Jap Souvenirs Sell Like Mad In Wild Raids On Tokyo Store

By HAL BOYLE

Tokyo (AP)—Souvenir crazy G.I.s have swamped, in a giant two-day buying spree, the Army's program to supply them Japanese gee-gaws at cost.

The Army's new Post Exchange, billed as "the finest in the world," opened last Saturday in the Hattori building, which is the Japanese equivalent to Tiffany or Cartier. Army agents had scoured Tokyo area for weeks buying all kimono, pearls, wood prints, lacquer-ware and other examples of native handicraft they could find.

Capt. W. W. Ward of New Orleans, La., and a staff of two lieutenants and five enlisted men and two truck drivers spent a week redecorating the building, arranging displays and training 50 Japanese sales girls the rudiments of English.

When the doors opened at noon the building looked as neat as any Fifth avenue department store with counters piled high with colorful goods. When the doors closed at 5 p. m.—three hours ahead of schedule—the place looked like it had been swept clean by a monsoon. In those five hours, some 17,000 yelling, cheering, grinning, pushing soldiers and sailors had swarmed through two sales floors and cleaned them out, plunking down nearly $100,000.

Presents For Christmas

"We knew they'd be here by the thousands, but I don't think there's been a buying wave like this in military history," said Ward, who in civilian life is in the export business.

Among the crowd were hundreds of soldiers preparing to return to the United States who want to take back Christmas presents—and judging from the kimono they bought, they wanted to make their girl friends all look like a Nipponese rainbow.

It was a sale where rank meant nothing, where the private's dollar was just as good as the general's, and where both elbowed equally at the choked counters.

Five times after the sale began it was necessary to close the doors until the store could be cleared. One aide pointed out that a brigadier general was being kept waiting in the line outside.

"I don't care," said Lt. A. Joel Grossbart of Newark, N. J., "in here a private is just as good as a five-star general."

"That's the right way to run an Army store, son," said the general and he waited his turn.

Money Flows Free

The Japanese yen flowed in so fast that the cash registers wouldn't hold them. Lt. Robert D. McNamara poured the bills into a wooden box and then had to stomp on them with his feet to pack them down.

After the last of 3,000 kimono were sold, late comers tried to buy those the sales girls were wearing. One small customer was given willing precedence by the soldiers who crowded around the counter of Japanese vases.

She was Mrs. Douglas MacArthur, who brought her son, "Doug," with her. Mrs. MacArthur bought two brightly colored cloisonne vases.

"I may bring them back," she smiled, "if the general doesn't like them."

"We never would have been able to open this store," Ward said, "if our men hadn't been willing to work 16 hours a day."

The "men" included Pvt. Joseph Glass of Philadelphia.

INTERNEES AT JAP CAMP LOST THIRTY POUNDS

By DEAN SCHEDLER

Manila, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Japanese operated Santo Tomas civilian prison camp under a "planned program of starvation" for approximately 4,000 internees, Magazine Editor A. V. H. Hartendorp testified Wednesday at the war crimes trial of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita.

At least eight internees died of starvation or malnutrition in the last four months of Japanese occupation, he stated.

The Japanese commandant refused to hear internees' complaints because he said Japan did not recognize the Geneva Convention.

Hartendorp told the U. S. Military Commission hearing charges that Yamashita permitted wholesale brutalities by his command that his own weight dropped from 170 to 106 pounds and that the average weight loss of all internees was 30 pounds.

He said conditions became steadily worse, with the Nipponese commandant making progressive cuts in internees' rations. In October, 1944, the internees' rations were reduced to "only two meals a day, which further endangered our health, particularly that of small children and older people."

Japs Looked Better

On cross-examination, the former editor said "the Japanese ration was better than ours, I'm certain, because they looked much better than any of us."

Hartendorp, long-time American resident of the islands and who edited the prewar "Philippine Magazine," said Santo Tomas internees received only three Red Cross packages—the last on Christmas, 1943.

Earlier Wednesday, the commission heard Henry Keys, London Daily Express correspondent, testify that he saw hundreds of bodies of civilians piled around the St. Augustine church courtyard, in the walled city, on February 23.

Keys said a Filipino girl with both feet amputated told him Japanese brutally cut off her limbs with a bayonet. He saw Chinese litter bearers struggling to save emaciated and wounded in an effort to get them to American lines. He saw the body of a small boy, who had been shot through the back of the skull as he knelt in the church.

Chapter 27

For the first few moments Carol was decidedly ill-at-ease. After all when by your own reckless carelessness you have caused a girl to be crippled for life, you may be excused for feeling diffident the next time you find yourself in her presence, Carol was thinking. But Anne, after her first surprise, was able to smile serenely.

"How nice of you to come, Carol!" "I know I should have come sooner—I was a heel not to, but I—I couldn't really bear to!" No one could have been more surprised than Carol, herself, to hear those words coming from her lips. She added, almost breathlessly, "Can you, by any chance, forgive me?"

Anne laughed. It was quite refreshing to see the high and mighty Miss King so confused and humbled. "But, of course, Carol. I never really considered the accident your fault. You just happened to be driving—and those headlights coming over the hill blinded you—I!"

"That's not true!" Carol was determined to be honest once in her life if it killed her. "I was blinded,—yes—but it was with fury and jealousy! When Wayne said you two were to be married, I simply lost control. I—I've loved him a long time, I guess."

"And never had anyone to teach you self-control and fortitude!" Anne was thinking, pity in her eyes. Aloud she said, "It's terrible to love someone who doesn't love you. Perhaps now—you know Wayne and I aren't engaged any more—"

"Yes, I hear from him regularly," she confessed.

Anne looked at the lovely girl, hiding uncertainty and frustration behind a cool mask of nonchalance. "She and Wayne are so much alike," he thought, "so young and sure on the outside at least—they're really suited to each other, much more so than Wayne and I ever were. They know nothing of the fraternity of suffering to which I, too, now belong. I wonder what the war will do to them—will it give them poise and peace and maturity? I have a feeling that they could both become very fine people!"

Carol was saying, "I have heard that Dr. Andrew Patterson is in town! And that he's been to see you. Is it true that he is to operate on you—to try to make you walk again?"

"If he thinks it advisable—after an examination of my injuries."

"Then, Anne, you've got to let me help—with the expenses, I mean! You've no idea what a load it would lift off my conscience. I blame myself so much for your injuries. And—and I do have plenty of money. Dr. Patterson's price is sure to be pretty steep. Won't—won't you let me pay for it? I—I want to do so very badly!"

In spite of all that had happened, Anne could not help being touched. Carol had dropped her air of cold worldliness for the moment and was like a child who had rehearsed a speech and was saying it very rapidly before she forgot it—or lost her courage.

Anne hastened to explain that Dr. Patterson had refused pay, even from her own father—that he considered he owed her some kind of a debt. That he insisted on performing the operation as a task of love.

"I guess you realize how truly fortunate you are to have him," Carol said. "And I—I read the article about you in the magazine." She flushed and lowered her eyes. "I—I think you're pretty wonderful!"

To her surprise Anne felt a warm rush of tears. The tribute coming from Carol was so entirely unexpected. "That's the nicest thing that's been said to me in a long time, Carol," she smiled. "And I do want you to know I appreciate your generous offer."

Carol drew in a deep breath as if she had successfully performed a duty that had long weighed on her conscience. "I'll be coming in to see you at the hospital often."

"I'll be expecting you."

Carol lingered on for a time, talking of many things. "I've thought of that night so often, Anne—when we all dined together at the club and you danced with John Lowell. Madeline Carlton was there, too, remember? And by the way, had you heard that Madeline is suing for a divorce? I guess she decided after all that she prefers the Major and romance to her old husband and his money!"

After a little while, Carol went away, waving gaily from the car as she went down the drive, her conscience eased, her duty done. She could not know that she had dropped a veritable bomb-shell into the quiet of that afternoon.

Anne was left alone with her turbulent, peace-shattering thoughts. Was this the answer to the question her heart had been asking about John's strange attitude toward her? Had he found out that he was to have Madeline, his first love, after all? And was this why he had spoken no more of love to Anne?

Mrs. Winslow came out on the porch and looked down toward the old tree; saw that Anne was sitting quietly, her head resting back against her pillows. She thought that her daughter must be sleeping, so still she lay, and went back into the house to complete whatever tasks she was about.

Anne continued to sit very still, her eyes on the far blue stretches of sky above her. She saw a lone plane come out of the east, circle twice over the nearby town and then disappear into the haze behind the foothills.

She had never known a heart could ache like this. When Wayne had disappointed her so many times she had been hurt and humiliated, but this shattering desolation shook her to the depths of her soul. To face life without John, to know that he belonged to someone else—this was more than she could bear.

But he had promised that he would stand by her—at least until after her operation—and that was one last small hope to cling to.

CONSERVATION IN STATE SERVES TWO PURPOSES

Harrisburg, Nov. 8 (AP)—Governor Martin said Wednesday the state's conservation program will accomplish the two-fold purpose of preserving Pennsylvania's natural wealth for future generations and stimulating employment in the re-conversion period.

Martin, reviewing the conservation activities of his administration in the 10th of a series of reports on the state government, listed many laws to save the state's "wide variety of natural resources."

"Foremost of these was the Bruner bill," he stated, "to prevent the pouring of silt into our rivers, and the discharge of acid mine drainage into our clean streams."

Disposal Mandatory
"A complementary measure makes it mandatory for municipalities to provide sewage disposal systems, and still another act permits local government units to set up municipal authorities to finance sewage disposal and other self-liquidating public works."

Other conservation measures listed by Martin included:

1. A law designed to "eradicate the vast waste areas caused by strip mining in the bituminous coal regions."
2. Appropriation of $5,000,000 "to initiate removal of silt from Schuylkill river."
3. Establishment of a new state Soil Conservation Commission "to coordinate all soil erosion control activities in the Commonwealth."
4. Allocation of $150,000 from the motor fund for the construction of up to 67 roadside rests by the Highway Department along state highways.

Long Range Program
He noted more than $30,000,000 was appropriated for conservation projects by the 1945 Legislature.

Martin recalled the Postwar Planning Commission and the State Planning Board of the Commerce Department have cooperated in setting up a state conservation committee "to supervise the long-range conservation program of the Commonwealth."

"Because of the responsibility for

Army Units Reaching U. S.

(By The Associated Press)
More than 12,500 veterans of the European war are scheduled to arrive at three east coast ports today aboard 14 transports.

At four west coast ports, 15 vessels are due to arrive with approximately 14,000 troops from the Pacific.

Scheduled to arrive at New York are seven vessels with more than 8,400 troops; four ships, carrying more than 1,700, are due at Newport News, Va., and three ships with approximately 2,500 are to arrive at Boston.

Ships and units arriving:

At New York
(Coaldale Victory from Le Havre originally due yesterday) 1,996 miscellaneous troops.
(William and Mary Victory) 1,948 miscellaneous troops.

(Stetson Victory from Antwerp) 1,961 troops including the 321st fighter control squadron; 402nd, 485th, 404th, 405th, 406th fighter conserving Pennsylvania's crop, land, waters, forests, minerals, coal, oil, fish and game, is divided among different departments," he stated, "there is obvious need for a coordinating and advisory agency, to prevent overlapping effort."

Martin also said three inter-state compacts were made "to foster the prevention, abatement and control of stream pollution."

They cover the water resources in the Delaware, the Ohio and the Potomac river basins.
